NEW PLAN OF CREDIT URGED BY MANITOBA

Bank Commission is Told Debt is Major Problem of Province's Farmers

Premier Bracken Makes Suggestions

Prices Must Be Stabilized at Higher Level Than Now, He Declares

By Ray Brown, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Winnipeg, Aug. 24.—Manitoba's submission was made before the Royal Commission on Banking here today. Presented by Premier John Bracken, it declared for the provision of "machinery to make possible a deliberate policy of public control of credit in Canada. It stated short time credit facilities for farmers were of vital importance to agriculture." It called for stabilization of price levels.

And, Premier Bracken emphasized, prices must be stabilized at a higher level than now exists. "Otherwise," he asserted, "the staggering burden of debt which faces western agriculture, and which has been intensified by the fall in prices, will never be wholly relieved."

MAJOR PROBLEM
The Manitoba Premier elaborated the problem of farm debts, which he classed as one of the major problems of the province.

"Either debts must be brought down to the present price level, or the price level must be raised to the debt level," he said. The former he regarded as a destructive policy. The latter was to be preferred.

"In this province there are now more than 70,000 persons on unemployment relief," Premier Bracken said in discussing this provincial problem. Nineteen million dollars had been spent in three years.

PUBLIC WORKS
The Manitoba government was strongly of the opinion a change must be made in the method of handling the unemployment problem.

"We suggest," said Premier Bracken, "credit be provided to enable the carrying out of a carefully planned program of useful public works, as well as a programme of self-liquidating works which in a reasonable time, would meet the service of the debt incurred."

He summarized the net results of unemployment policies prevailing over the last three years as follows:

Starvation of the unemployed had been prevented.

RELIEF PLAN FOR FARMERS

Needy in Southwest Manitoba May Be Aided By Saskatchewan Commission

Regina, Aug. 24.—Information the Dominion government intended to close down the Saskatchewan relief commission was branded by Premier J. T. M. Anderson as "ridiculous."

The commission was responsible to the provincial government, said the Premier.

Regarding the proposal the Dominion government administer the dried-out section of southwestern Manitoba through the Saskatchewan relief commission, Mr. Anderson said the matter was still under advisement.

He said Saskatchewan was ready to do this on condition the agreement between the federal and Manitoba governments for cost payment be continued and the administration cost be borne by Manitoba.

Joint Commission Is In Session In Nelson

Canadian-U.S. Tribunal Hearing Arguments on Raising of Level of Kootenay Lake

Nelson, B.C., Aug. 24.—Sessions of the International Joint Commission were opened here this morning on the application of the West Kootenay Power and Light Company to store water in Kootenay Lake up to a maximum of six feet above the low water mark at Nelson and to construct control works and utilize them to control the flow of the Kootenay River, on which the company has four power plants below Nelson producing an aggregate of 227,000 horsepower.

The original application was to build a control dam at Granite, four miles below Nelson, but later the company built it at Corralinn, four miles further.

Storm Leaves Trail Of Dead and Losses In the Eastern U.S.

Seacoast Pounded By Worst Blow in Years; Yacht Missing in Lake Ontario

New York, Aug. 24.—Death, terror and destruction rode on the tail of the maddest storm to strike the Atlantic seaboard of the United States in many a year.

The death toll went well over a dozen, with the derailment this morning of the crack Southern Railway train Crescent Limited as it hurtled through a rain-soaked bridge spanning the Anacostia River near Washington.

The engineer and fireman were killed and at least thirteen injured. Other deaths included two on the battered coastal liner Medicus, eight in Virginia, the electrocution of a small girl at Seaside, N.J., and a motorist driving in a heavy rain at Coastville, Pa.

Damage to property ran into millions of dollars. Smashed shore resorts, marooned communities and the wreckage of small craft dotted the coast.

At sea, shipping shuddered in the grip of tremendous waves. A partly-crippled passenger liner, the Madison, with 109 persons aboard, fought her way into Norfolk, Va., today after sounding two SOS calls yesterday. Reaching port in the early hours of the morning, the crew reported two men missing. At least two other large vessels were missing.

CALLS FOR AID
Frantic calls for coast guard aid reached Washington from half a dozen Maryland towns, where 100 families were marooned and reported in deadly peril.

Eight persons are known to have died in Virginia alone yesterday and last night as waves like mighty hammers wrecked beach resorts, luxurious homes and cottages.

To-day the storm whipped parts of New England with gales that crippled shipping and menaced shore communities.

Nudists Warned By Police Chief

Boys Disport Themselves "a Naturel" at the Gorge and Complaints Are Made

Three Victoria nudists, aged seventeen, sixteen and fifteen, respectively, were given a caution by Chief of Police Thomas Healey yesterday.

Their nude bathing annoyed a resident of Gorge Road, near Selkirk Bridge, and she telephoned to police headquarters. A car left the police station and brought the boys in, wearing their clothes.

The chief told them the law makes an offence of nudism.

LINERS DELAYED REACHING PORT

New York, Aug. 24.—Shipping was tied up here to-day by rain, fog and a wind of gale intensity. At quarantine none of the ships due to dock during the forenoon had reported.

SHIP IS AGROUND; PASSENGERS SAFE

Associated Press
Norfolk, Va., Aug. 24.—The Chesapeake steamship liner City of Norfolk is aground in Pocomoke Sound, one mile east of the north end of Watt's Island. Her passengers are safe.

News of the discovery of the steamer, missing and unheard from since she left Baltimore early Tuesday evening was received by radio at 1:30 to-day from one of the two navy planes that had been searching for the missing vessel since early to-day.

"Steamer City of Norfolk," read the message received at the Norfolk naval base, "aground one mile east of north end of Watt's Island. Passengers on deck and apparently not in distress. Airplane returning to base."

A. H. Bryde of Washington, engineer, and J. H. Faye, fireman, of Perryville, Maryland, were killed.

CAR IN RIVER
A mail car and a coach were hurled ahead of the engine, diagonally across the tracks. A dead-end car was thrown into the stream.

Four other cars hung precariously to the road-bed. Two cars, off the track, swung directly over the stream, partly submerged.

Washington police at first reported two other men had been killed, but later said they had been mistaken.

SPED OF TRAIN
Where were conflicting reports as to the speed of the train. Officials of the road said it had been proceeding under reduced speed orders. But there appeared to be a general opinion among the railroad civil engineers the train had been going about fifty miles an hour.

The train was crossing a bridge over the eastern branch of the Anacostia River when the accident, apparently caused by terrific rains and the swollen stream, occurred without warning.

The last car of the train remained upright on the far side of the stream. The terrific force of the impact hurled the engine on its right side, burying it in the mud.

A squad of ambulances under police escort and a rescue train were rushed to the scene.

Dr. Martin J. Keane, Riverside, Md., who took charge of the rescue work, said all the passengers had been taken from the wreckage.

In the mail car the doctor found two clerks calmly sipping mail, even though badly shaken up by the wreck.

SLEPT THROUGH ALL
One man, whose name was not ascertained, told the doctor he had slept through the wreck, which tore the cars apart.

The derailment happened along a desolate stretch of track where water poured along both sides of the Pennsylvania Railroad's double-track right-of-way.

Mr. Tarling advocates the application in politics of the four Oxford absolutes, purity, love, unselfishness and truth. He is also for the socialization of public services and the elimination of fear of unemployment and poverty.

Mr. Tarling likewise wants the abolition of patronage and more equitable and compassionate treatment of mothers and widows receiving pensions.

Like G. R. Bates, who has announced he will run as an Independent in the charming valley of Comox Mr. Tarling is a farmer, and was once a member of the Conservative Association.

Through the long distance telescope it looks as if there might be a lot of political feeling in the valley. Dr. G. K. MacNaughton, who represented the constituency of a Conservative in the last Legislature seems to be coldly ignoring. Electors of the district meet to-night to discuss the nomination of an independent candidate, and plan to pay no consideration to the two who have already announced their ambitions.

Bridge Weakened By Stream, Swollen By Heavy Rains

Associated Press
Washington, Aug. 24.—The Crescent Limited, crack Southern Railway train en route from New York to New Orleans, carried two engineers to instant death and sent thirteen passengers and members of its crew to hospitals when it was derailed over a swollen stream here at 3:45 this morning.

A weakened bridge over the Anacostia River caused the disastrous wreck. The engine left the rails, plunging into a mudbank, with its operating cab submerged in the stream.

A. H. Bryde of Washington, engineer, and J. H. Faye, fireman, of Perryville, Maryland, were killed.

Sapperton, B.C., in 1867 and was familiarly known as "Pat" to a wide circle of friends throughout the province, passed away yesterday at 1937 Blanshard Street, after an illness of about ten years' duration. His passing removes one of the few remaining links with the early days of the Royal Engineers, his father, the late Daniel Deasy, being one of that little band of pioneers who came from England to found the settlement of Sapperton, near where New Westminster now stands.

In 1869 Daniel Deasy, with his family, was transferred with other officials to Victoria, the new capital of the Crown Colony, from New Westminster.

The Deasys being made on the steamer Sir James Douglas. For ten years the family lived in the old Parliament Buildings, then known as the "Birds' Cage," where Daniel Deasy was employed as caretaker. Young William John Deasy received his early education at St. Louis College.

For a number of years he was a member of the old volunteer fire brigade, and subsequently, when the fire brigade was reorganized under the civic authorities, became a driver, serving under his brother, Thomas Deasy, who was for many years fire chief.

"Pat" Deasy was one of the best-known sportsmen in the early days, being prominently identified with the lacrosse and baseball teams. First as a player and later as coach. His prowess in sports and as a banjo player made him popular throughout the North-west.

During the gold rush to the Klondyke, Mr. Deasy was among a party of firemen, which also included Charlie Bush and Mike Conlan, who went to Dawson in search of fortune. He spent about a year in the north before returning to Victoria.

Mr. Deasy is survived by one daughter, Mrs. H. Pascoe, Vancouver, and one brother, Thomas Deasy, Saanichton. The funeral will be held from the Sands Mortuary Monday morning at 8:50 o'clock, and at 9 o'clock mass will be said at St. Andrew's Cathedral. Interment will be in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Fears Health of B.C. Endangered

Effect of People Being Forced on Relief Must Bear Toll, Says Dr. H. E. Young

Provincial Officer Fears Consequences of Continuation of Present Conditions

Fears that present conditions forcing thousands of citizens on relief will have an effect on the general health of the people of British Columbia are voiced in a report to Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Secretary, by Dr. H. E. Young, provincial health officer, which is made public to-day.

"In British Columbia," says Dr. Young, "the conditions that prevailed have been satisfactory when we consider the circumstances under which the people have been living, but the mental effect upon the people, as the result of so many being forced upon relief, must bear its toll. While I am not pessimistic as to the future of the people of British Columbia, still I have not any false hope that we will escape the effects on the general health of the people."

FUNDS REDUCED
Remarkable that British Columbia has made remarkable progress in health work during the last ten years, Dr. Young regrets the necessity of curtailment of funds for this purpose, preventing any hope of making further progress in the development of health work.

"The amount retained in the budget has been barely sufficient to maintain our work," the doctor comments. "A per capita cost of about fifteen cents, representing the expenditure for public health purposes, is a sad commentary on the lack of knowledge in the minds of the public of the real value of the work when so much can be done for small cost," says the report. "It is a pity that they do not

Two Arrested; One Escapes

Police in Vancouver Guided to Store By Unnamed Citizen

Associated Press
Vancouver, Aug. 24.—Answering a call early to-day to the store of D. W. Crutchy, at 3417 West Broadway, Constables M. Walker and G. Oesch arrested two men on charges of breaking and entering the premises. A third man, who apparently acted as lookout for the two in the place, escaped, although fired on by Constable Walker.

A citizen whose name was not obtained by police aided in the capture. He notified headquarters when he saw other calls telling of the progress of the robbery, and this information was relayed by radio to the officers dispatched to the store. They saw a man run from the rear of the place and fired several shots in his direction. The prowler escaped.

In the store, according to the police report, the constables found two men, who on being taken to police headquarters and booked on charges, gave their names as Angus Campbell and Leslie Ramsey, and their addresses as Toronto Rooms, East Hastings Street.

MEN DIG DITCH

Large numbers of men in Salisbury, Md., a city of 11,000, were called on, a witness said, to dig a ditch to divert the Wilcombe River and save the business section from floods.

Coast guard boats saved 100 people at Willoughby Spit.

The seas inundated the waterway yesterday, shattered a pavilion at Wildwood, N.J., and sent wealthy summer residents of Cape May, N.J., fleeing from their homes.

In New York and at other parts of the coast, the storm took the form of a northeast. The metropolis faced serious traffic jams because of flooded highways and railroad tracks. Fallen trees strewn streets.

YACHT MISSING

Catkill, N.Y., Aug. 24.—The big eastern storm moved into New York state and the region bordering the Great Lakes to-day as a fifty-mile gale and driving rain drove all shipping on Lake Ontario to shelter and hid the fate of the forty-five-foot yawl Ontario, only craft to leave Rochester since the storm set in.

The Ontario, believed heading for Toronto, was unreported. Toronto officials said in view of weather conditions prevailing yesterday evening the yawl had probably put in somewhere. This report could not be confirmed immediately.

The coastguard began efforts to locate the Ontario, owned by Carl Fisher, Rochester teacher. Fisher said the Ontario carried a crew of three men, William Tarr and Alfred Cash of Rochester, and O. Kenneth Baker of Buffalo.

BOAT AROUND

The Canadian fishing boat Doris E., carrying 1,200 pounds of fish from Conception, Ont., for Rochester, ran aground on Summerville. The owner, Westley Kiser, and Charles Macdonald, his helper, were taken off by coast-guardmen from Summerville. The cargo was salvaged.

RESCUES RUSHED

At Mount Tremper, in the heart of the Catskills, swollen Spous Creek whirled about the feet of three women and two children whose names were unknown, while the fire department from Poughkeepsie, ninety miles away, rushed to their rescue with a gun and life line.

The half-flooded village of Fleischmann turned anxious eyes toward the dam which holds back Switzerland Lake. When men arose in a heavy storm to open the emergency flood gates, they found water already rushing three feet deep over the machinery. It was not certain whether the gates were opened or closed.

SHIP REACHES PORT

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 24.—The hurricane-battered steamship Macon, with two of her crew swept to her deaths by mountainous waves, limped into port here early to-day after being in distress for long hours off the coast of Virginia.

The steamer, which yesterday sent out two SOS calls, managed to outlive the storm and proceed under her own power to port.

Waves carried overboard Lycourus Lawrence of North Carolina, the second mate, and Edward Dobbett of Newfoundland, quartermaster, who had gone on deck to investigate the damage done by the first huge wave that struck the ship as she encountered the hurricane.

The wave, described by Captain William Hest as the largest he had ever seen, tore away the forward house and wrecked much of the superstructure.

A haggard group of passengers, who had spent a sleepless night wearing life preservers, came from aboard the ship when it docked.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 24.—Virginia counted ten dead and millions of dollars in damage to-day in the wake of the wildest hurricane ever experienced here.

Coast guardmen, wading to their armpits, saved seventy residents of Cavalier Shores in pitch darkness. Picket boats rescued 200 at Willoughby, many from second-story windows. At Manteo, N.C., Mrs. George H. Hopkins was hauled a quarter-mile in a breeches buoy through pounding surf from the wrecked schooner Kohler.

Damage at Virginia Beach alone was estimated by Norfolk residents at $1,000,000.

Three Thousand See Cordova Bay Events

Outstanding Regatta Has
Many Features; F. Doherty
Wins Norris Cup

Grace Bischell Gets Life-saving Medal; Large Entries
in All Events

More than 3,000 people yesterday afternoon attended one of the most successful Cordova Bay regattas ever held, and sat in on a long and varied programme of land and sea events from 1 o'clock until dusk.

One of the feature races on the programme was that between all dinghies for the Norris Cup. The course was 200 yards. Fred Doherty came in the winner and Ritchie Hughes was a good second. There were nine boats in the obstacle race, another feature, and the boys double dinghy, balloon and mixed canoe events were keenly contested.

A disappointing was the lot of the large crowd when the sea flea exhibition of Kermit "Cammie" Cameron failed to come up to expectations. Racing for the Manson Challenge Cup against Jack Bevan, Nanaimo, Cameron was about half a lap ahead with half a lap to go when his engine caught fire.

The local water speed merchant was unable to finish and Bevan took the silverware up-land. Cameron was unable to make his assault on the world's record for outboard motors.

A swimming exhibition by W. T. Stanley, Victoria, life-saving expert, was much enjoyed.

HEROINE REWARDED
An ovation was given Miss Grace Bischell, heroine of a mishap at Cordova Bay recently. Miss Bischell was presented with a medal for life-saving by G. W. Russell, president of the regatta committee, for her bravery in jumping in to rescue Arthur Goddard when he was seized with a cramp.

Another feature was the introduction by Mr. Russell of William Dea, who aided in inaugurating the Cordova Bay regatta in 1912, and has returned to the city after a period in the interior.

The regatta committee, for her services of the services of Mr. Russell and Fred Doherty in making the regatta the success it was. Loud cheers greeted this. Russell extended thanks to the committee, which had labored with him and which included the following: Art Miles, vice-president; Fred Doherty, secretary; H. H. Russell, president; William Dea, G. W. Russell, starters of land events; George Holt, Jack Rippon and V. Burnett, judges of land events; George Holt, Jack Rippon and V. Burnett, judges of water events; Mr. Dea, Mr. Moresby and Mr. Ellis, judges of aquatic events; Mrs. O'Connell and Mrs. Alma Ducas, judges of sand-building contest.

Following the regatta dances were held at McMorran's and the Little Arctic. Color was added to the occasion by camp singing and the regatta band and bandone conducted by the Shantymen's Mission.

Full results of the land events were as follows:
Tota 15 yards—1, Malcolm McDonald; 2, Donny McLeod; 3, Grace Roakley; 4, Lyle Russell.

Boys' 10 yards—1, Evelyn Mallet; 2, Grace Roakley.
Boys' 6 yards and under, 25 yards—1, Kenneth Druse; 2, Malcolm McDonald; 3, Gordon Beaton.

Girls' 8 yards and under, 50 yards—1, Lois Russell; 2, Noreen Druce.

PREMIER-ELECT IS TAKING REST

Halifax, Aug. 24.—Premier-elect Angus L. Macdonald left his political worries behind to-day and departed for the countryside for a few quiet days of rest before assuming the leadership of Nova Scotia's government.

Exhausted by the long, vigorous campaign which brought his party to power in Tuesday's general election, the victorious Liberal leader headed for a secret destination somewhere outside Nova Scotia.

Discontent among the unemployed had increased. The confidence and self-reliance of the people on relief was rapidly being destroyed.

The cost was heavy. It was being placed on future generations. Interest rates on loans to individuals in the west were high, the Premier stated.

FROM REGINA
It was from Regina the commission came to Winnipeg for sittings covering two days.

Premier Bracken made a brief speech of welcome, promising the assistance of the government in the work which had to be done.

"We have arrived in your midst at a very critical moment," Baron Macmillan, chairman, said. He thought it was a wise decision for the commission to visit all the provinces. This had enabled its members to get the atmosphere of different parts of Canada.

LAST ON FRANKIES
"With the Winnipeg sittings we shall close our western tour," said Lord Macmillan. "We will then proceed to the Atlantic provinces."

He said the commission had found a very complex problem in the west, he said. Natural difficulties which no man could overcome in the west, he said. The commission was now considering what part finance played in these problems.

YESTERDAY'S HEARING
Regina, Aug. 24.—Farmers in Saskatchewan number approximately 130,000. A large percentage of them cannot present a statement which would justify a bank in advancing them money.

This was the question put by Premier J. E. Brownlie of Alberta, a member of the Regina commission on the 23rd.

"What is the solution?" asked the commissioner.
"I do not know," replied the superintendent.

"It is not in the national interest the farmer should be allowed to go to seed and not produce. Can he perform his function without credit?" pursued Mr. Brownlie.

"No," said Mr. Higgins. He admitted there was a problem and it must be faced, but he had no solution.

On the other hand, George Robertson, secretary of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, expressed the belief Canada's financial institutions could supply the necessary funds for agriculture.

"If not," he said, "it appears to me some other agency must be set up to provide credit." National interest must be placed first and private interest second, he said. The raising of price levels for agricultural products was a vital necessity.

Lord Macmillan sounded a note of relief. The picture which has been painted for his body at its two Saskatchewan sittings should have been, of necessity, such a sombre one. "I can only deplore, and deeply deplore, it should be such a melancholy picture," he said in bidding farewell to the province. He and his colleagues wished for Saskatchewan a return of that prosperity which had been here.

Farmers contributed yesterday to the dark picture of which Baron Macmillan spoke.

"Something has got to be done," was the protest from Edward Potter, a farmer of the Regina district, for twenty-one years who said he "used to be able to go into a bank and get $10,000, and now I doubt if I could get 10,000 cents."

"I don't know," he said. "I am not finding fault with the banks, but he asked, 'Why should the banks be getting their crop when the farmer is getting no crop?' The banks should take some of the loss as well as the farmers, he thought.

INTEREST RATES
Another bank official who appeared was W. G. Yule, supervisor of the Royal Bank of Canada, who devoted a portion of his statement to correcting an error which he claimed had been made in previous testimony. High interest rates were not charged by the banks, he said. Since May last, the rate on farmers' loans had been 7 per cent in every case. Prior to that it had been 8. Municipalities did not pay 7 per cent, but 6 1/2, he added.

The money found in letters that find their way to the Debt Letter Office goes to the Treasury Department as miscellaneous receipts.

SCHMELING TO MEET BOTH SHARKEY AND BAER SOON

New York, Aug. 24.—Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion, will return to the United States next month for a match with Jack Sharkey in the Madison Square Garden in October and a return bout with Max Baer in the Olympic Stadium in Los Angeles February 14, his manager, Joe Jacobs, announced to-day.

Baer, now in California, scored a knockout over Schmeling last June.

WET-DRY HOT CAMPAIGN IN TEXAS

Determined that the Lone Star State shall remain dry, Senator Morris Sheppard, called "The Father of the Eighteenth Amendment," is making a whirlwind tour of the state exhorting its citizens to stand fast against the flood of wet sentiment that has swept twenty-one states into the repeal fold. On the other side former Governor Jim Ferguson is telling the people "new deal." Considerable weight is carried by Postmaster General James Farley's exhortation to the voters to join the repeal column. Farley has the dispensing of federal patronage.

U.S. AID FOR CUBA FACTOR

Sympathetic Financial Policy
Promised: Election Immediately After Reforms
By J. F. McKnight, Associated Press Writer

Havana, Aug. 24.—Steadfast determination to give Cuba good government—strengthened by the grim lesson the overthrow of Machado regime taught—has been completed investigation of known gold hoarders.

It has been officially intimated the United States Government stands ready to aid Cuba in any way possible, by revision of the two countries' trade reciprocity treaty, by tariff concessions and by helping her arrange an emergency loan.

This last would be utilized, it is substantially learned, to pay public employees, to replace the shattered old political parties with new organizations deriving from the ABC and OCB secret societies, students, professors, Nationalists and other former opposition factions supporting the de Céspedes government.

This must be preceded by constitutional reforms, which are impossible without Congress, presently dominated by the result of the Machado regime's fall. Congressmen close to Machado, who have not yet resigned—and many have—will be asked to give up their office, their seats to be filled by alternates who were selected in the same elections but do not bear the so-called mark of Machadoism.

To these alternates will be added the little group of twenty odd orthodox Conservative legislators who never once bowed to Machado, and a working quorum in the House thereby may be obtained.

The reform programme to be submitted to Congress at the earliest moment entails restoration of the office of Vice-President, eliminated in 1928 by Machado, and an election immediately after ratification of the reform is completed.

At the request of Mr. Dennies, Mayor Louis D. Taylor has named Ald. Smith as the city's representative on the provincial relief advisory committee.

Reeve William Crouch of Saanich will represent the Union of B.C. Municipalities on this committee which will be consulted whenever questions arise under the new provincial and federal agreement.

After that meeting Mr. Dennies stated it had been decided to commence at once a survey of food costs for relief purposes. In this connection Ald. Smith raised the question of a rise in bread prices from five to six cents, demanded by the Vancouver Master Bakers' Association, probably would be decided at a meeting next week.

No conclusion was reached this morning.

NEW U.S. STAMP IS CRITICIZED

Washington, Aug. 24.—The United States Postoffice Department has run into criticism because of the "Gusman" design of the new three-cent NRA stamp. Apart from the design it is generally conceded the engraving is poor. Russian aspects of the design include a scythe and an industrial worker, critics charge.

The delegates will be joined by others from the Gulf Islands and will consider the situation created by the refusal of other Conservatives to drop out of the race to leave a clear field for W. W. Without Salve or Cutting Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salve nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost cease. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. E. Leachman was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 999 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

Dr. J. E. Leachman's HEM-ROID has a wonderful record of success right in this city and MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores invite every Pile sufferer to try a bottle of HEM-ROID and guarantee to refund the purchase price if they do not and Piles in any form.

Nations' Delegates in London Fail to Reach Agreement and Will Meet Again Tomorrow

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Aug. 24.—The World Wheat Conference this afternoon failed to reach agreement on a wide plan for restoring world wheat markets, and will meet again to-morrow. It has been fully expected the conference could get down to signing the draft agreement this afternoon, but a continued snag over a world wheat price, which will determine wheat importing nations are to reduce their customs tariff on wheat, held up the progress.

RESERVATIONS STATED
The conference failed to reach the first of a world wheat price, the whole time taken up in statements from delegates of the importing countries on the attitude of their governments toward the draft agreement submitted by the exporting countries. A number of them, it is understood, have entered reservations to this scheme and the suggestion is these reservations should be embodied in an appendix to the agreement.

Paul Devinat of France left for Paris to consult his government further, but among the conference delegates confidence was expressed the expected agreement would not be long delayed.

Others, however, commented as the delegates dispersed: "The conference has entered the non-committal stage."

STATEMENT ISSUED
With a meeting held in strict privacy, an official communiqué was issued which confined itself to the statement:

"The importing countries, in view of their attitude to the terms of the draft agreement, discussed the matter and there will be a further meeting at 11:30 to-morrow. The importing countries will meet together at 10:30 to-morrow and the subject of the average price of wheat to be attained for a fixed period before the adjustment of tariffs will also be discussed."

The conference confirmed the importing countries' selection of their membership on the proposed international advisory committee. The importing countries considered France, Italy, Germany and the United Kingdom should be represented.

Switzerland was chosen as representing the neutral countries, and those

Man accused of abduction
St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 24.—Police Chief Thomas Dahill and James F. Lynch, assistant county attorney, yesterday served warrants charging abduction and assault on Dr. W. H. Hedberg, chiropractor, to climax a weird story involving the reputed drugging of a prominent physician and an attempt on his life.

The warrants charge the chiropractor with engineering the abduction of Dr. E. J. Engberg, secretary of the Minnesota State Board of medical examiners, last July 12, and leaving him drugged in an automobile parked on railway tracks.

Hedberg was found last Sunday, semi-conscious and suffering from abrasions and minor injuries, and still is in a hospital.

Dahill and Lynch, after issuance of the warrants, related a story of fancied wrong to explain the attack on the physician.

Chief Dahill and Lynch claim the chiropractor lured Dr. Engberg from his home last July 12 and as an excuse for subsequent actions, asked Dr. Engberg to perform a mutilating operation on a man. When Dr. Engberg refused, he was drugged, placed in his automobile and the car parked on a railroad crossing, where it was struck by a train. Hedberg was found a short distance away with a bullet wound in one ear.

Manila, Aug. 24 (Canadian Press).—The minority group, headed by Manuel Roxas, filed a bill in the Philippine House of Representatives yesterday that would leave to the decision of the people themselves whether they wished to accept the freedom from the United States ten years hence, offered by the United States Congress.

Island Exhibition Proves Attractive

Displays of Vegetables and Preserves Draw Favorable Comment

Many Attend Fair at Ganges Harbor; List of Awards

Ganges Harbor, August 24.—The thirty-fifth annual exhibition of the Islands Agricultural and Fruit Growers' Association and Farmers' Institute was the main attraction here yesterday, favored by excellent weather.

Owing undoubtedly to the dry summer and the early date of the exhibition, there was a falling off in the quantity and quality of the fruit shown, but in the vegetable classes the exhibits were good. In flowers also there was an appreciable decrease. In the bottled goods the exhibits were good, the judge, Mrs. E. Simmonds of Victoria expressing her opinion that they "could not be surpassed and seldom equaled anywhere in the province both for color and quality."

The needlework section showed some splendid examples and drew admiring comments from the judges. The photograph section also had good exhibits, as did the home cooking classes.

The judges were: Women's sections, Mrs. E. Simmonds, Victoria; eggs, W. Haggard of the finance department and E. White of the B.C. Department of Agriculture.

NEW PAINT FOR OXFORD GAS TANKS

Canadian Press
London, Aug. 24.—Like other ancient and beautiful places, the city of Oxford—"city of spires"—is troubled by the obtrusive ugliness of its gas containers.

The Oxford Preservation Trust, which has been in conflict with the Oxford Gas Company on the subject, has come to a "compromise." The gas company has promised to paint the containers "a color which shall tend to hide them."

Temporarily, therefore, the dispute is at an end. But those who are jealous for the maintenance of the gracious old-world beauty of the university city ask where will be found the master painter who is magician enough to camouflage the innate ugliness of a large gas tank.

Long Beach, Cal., Aug. 24 (Canadian Press).—Ten cents was added to this city's "conscience fund" yesterday when a shiny dime rolled from an unnamed letter postmarked Regina, Sask. The letter said: "I once had a ride on a Long Beach trolley. My fare was not collected. So here it is with interest."

Public Confidence

FOR over three-quarters of a century, The Bank of Toronto has enjoyed the steady confidence of the Canadian people. It has justified this confidence by adhering unwaveringly to sound banking principles. Consequently it has gone from strength to strength until today assets of over $119,000,000 and deposits of over $92,000,000 are tangible evidence of the important role it plays in the progress of Canada.

During the years of its existence, The Bank of Toronto has assisted in the founding of many industrial and agricultural enterprises now of national and international importance. Its accumulated experience and banking strength are always at the disposal of commercial, industrial and private interests.

CUPID AND WAR

In reporting an attempted hold-up the other day in the United States, newspapers incidentally cast a revealing sidelight on the ways of Cupid in time of war.

It all happened when three men tried to rob a Cincinnati restaurant. An eighteen-year-old waitress grabbed a pistol, killed one robber and routed the other two; and the sidelight on Cupid's activities came when it was revealed that this girl had been a sure-enough "war baby." Her father was a German soldier and her mother a Belgian girl, and they were married near Antwerp in 1914.

Now 1914 was not a time when Germans and Belgians were getting on well together. The host in field gray was pouring across the Belgian plain like a flood. Belgian sovereignty had almost vanished. Cities and towns were ruled by German officers. Civilians had been executed by firing squads. Thousands of people had fled from their homes.

The age-old tragedy of invasion was being reenacted, and out of it was arising that stream of "atrocity" literature which was to help so greatly in creating a war spirit elsewhere.

In the history books, that scene is painted in solid black. But apparently, to some of the people on the spot, it was not that way at all. Apparently there were young German soldiers to whom the Belgian girls looked like desirable companions, and not like the out-cast daughters of bitter enemies; and there were Belgian girls who could find among the conquerors handsome and glamorous boys who could make first-rate husbands.

We never heard much about those romances. But we might have known they were taking place. They are as old as war. Even when Mars is running the whole show, Cupid is bound to be busy on the sidelines. Invasions are great tragedies, and the thudding of siege guns drowns out many cries of anguish; but always there are soldiers and girls who make their own arrangements about such things. Young love can leap boundaries of hatred, conquest and war. It was so when Alexander marched into Asia, and it is so to-day. All the ways in the world can not stop youth from going ahead with its romance.

FACTS THAT MUST BE FACED

When Premier Bennett gets back from England it is to be hoped he will make a careful study of the country's financial condition. Here are some of the facts with which the government is faced:

| | |
|--|-----------------|
| Public debt | $2,640,808,882 |
| Interest and sinking fund charges on this debt | 142,278,443 |
| Guaranteed railway, etc., debt | 1,000,822,468 |
| Interest charges last year, approximately | 55,000,000 |
| An estimated deficit for year, including relief and railways | 80,941,000 |

Even such a warm supporter of the government as The Montreal Star is alarmed about the condition of the public finances. It notes that the Minister of Finance levied new taxes on the people which were expected to yield $70,000,000 more than last year; yet at the end of the first three months of the present fiscal year—April to June inclusive—these revenues were no less than $16,000,000 behind. In other words, if this trend should continue for the balance of the fiscal year which ends next March 31, there will be a further deficit of $134,000,000 to add to the estimated deficit of $80,941,000. This would bring the total deficit up to more than $200,000,000, or an amount approximating two-thirds of the net national debt in 1913.

There is no especial need to get unduly alarmed over the present financial situation. The government has it within its power to change matters very rapidly by cutting out its restrictive trade policy. The Times has frequently said that the drop in our external trade from $2,650,000,000 four years ago to one-third of that value is not due solely to the government's fiscal policy; but it has been responsible for a great deal of that decline. Even with improving conditions generally, the trade of Canada for the twelve months ending June this year was worth $2,000,000 less than for the twelve months ending May, and nearly $200,000,000 less than for the twelve months ending June, 1932. These are the official figures issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce, over which Hon. H. H. Stevens presides.

Students of public affairs can turn to the last budget speech of the King government and find that the debt of the country at that time—1930—was approximately $2,250,000,000 and that our external trade was worth nearly $2,400,000,000. While in five years, from 1925 to 1930, the King government reduced the net debt of the country by nearly $300,000,000, the present administration has increased it by approximately $400,000,000, with a deficit of more than $200,000,000 in the offing, and trade down to approximately $200,000,000 less than it was in 1913. And when Mr. Bennett took office there was a surplus of approximately $45,000,000 in the treasury.

RE-DISCOVERS HIS NATIVE LAND

A native son of British Columbia, Major Gladstone Murray, an executive of the British Broadcasting Corporation who recently was in Canada in an advisory capacity to the Canadian Broadcasting Commission—whose report recently was presented to the Ottawa government—has written his impressions of his visit to The London Daily Telegraph. He says: "After a period of twenty years' absence, I have now had the privilege of revisiting the Dominion of Canada from coast to coast.

"The vast majority of the Canadian people, although by no means impoverished, have never been accustomed to great prosperity such as has periodically visited the United States. The economic history of Canada could be plotted with fewer and shallower variations; and so it is true to say that Canada as a whole has weathered the last economic storm more successfully than has the United States.

"Moreover, there are now abundant signs of recovery in the Dominion. Although the relatively undeviating course of her economic history has played its part, one must go deeper to discover the fundamental reason for Canada's equanimity and her imminent recovery.

"This, I believe, is the resolute character and high purpose of her people.

"Wherever one goes—the Maritime Provinces, with their sturdy tradition of seas and forests—French Canada, home of a race which is more French than France in all the industrious, home-loving, and joyous qualities which helped to create a new and distinct civilization—Ontario, with its solid British and United Empire Loyalist background, the centre of Canadian industry and intensive agriculture—the three prairie provinces and the far north, still the chief granary of the world, peopled by the descendants of the hardest races of Europe—British Columbia, with its majestic mountains and rich valleys, with almost unlimited resources in timber and minerals, more nearly British in population than any other part of the Dominion—go anywhere in Canada, and you will encounter the same steadfastness, the same refusal to admit defeat.

"Herein is the secret of Canada's equanimity, herein is the reason for Canada's imminent recovery leading the way for the rest of the world."

A TIP FOR THE COMMISSION

Occasionally we read that some young bank clerk has absconded, and many people regard the incident as another example of the frailty of human character. It may be that, but the frailty often is one of the bank and not that of the clerk. Junior bank clerks are notoriously underpaid in Canada, and it is time steps were taken to insure a proper relationship between their remuneration and their responsibility. One reason why so many young men trained in Canadian banking institutions emigrated to the United States was the better appreciation over there of the value of honest, careful, and faithful young people to institutions of this kind.

Banks are public utilities, operating with public funds, and the public expects that their officers should be remunerated at least as well as those who are engaged in the public service. The human material in banks is infinitely more important than the palatial structures in which it is employed, and it is the best assurance to the public that its deposits will be safeguarded. Banks with adequately-paid employees, no matter how dignified and forbidding they be, are places in which they are conducted, are much safer depositories of funds than those which erect elegant edifices largely at the expense of those employed by them. The commission now investigating our banking system might very pertinently inquire into this aspect of the situation.

MAKING BETTER MEN

Aside from the minor difficulties inherent in so vast a project, and the fact that a few trouble-making radicals managed to draw attention to themselves in the early stages, says a United States commentator on the "forest army," the training of the big reforestation plan seems to be progressing in an eminently satisfactory manner. He says further:

"Perhaps the most encouraging report comes from Fort Knox, Ky. Army doctors there the other day checked up on the health records of 950 young men who had come down from an industrial city a month before. They found that during their month in camp, these young men had gained an average of eleven pounds apiece in weight.

"Could anything testify better to the benefits of these camps? Whether the reforestation army plants a lot of trees or not, it has at least taken a lot of young men who were not getting enough to eat and filled them up, improving both their health and their morale."

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

FAMOUS WORDS
 The London Express

Mr. Lloyd George denies that he ever said "Hang the Kaiser." The Kaiser has denied that he said, "Contemptible little army."

Very few of the phrases fastened on men by their enemies or their admirers were really spoken by them. Walpole never said "All men have their price." Nor is it like Nelson to have said either "Kiss me Hardy," or "Thank God I have done my duty."

And were Pitt's last words, "My country, how I love my country," or "Roll up the map of Europe," or "I think I could eat one of Bismarck's meat pies"? That is one of history's intriguing mysteries.

HIS MAJESTY'S MAXIMS
 The Regina Leader-Post

An English journal in its current issue gives favorite quotations of celebrated people and shows quite clearly how many men and women whose names and deeds are known through the world fortify their lives by recalling great sayings and sentiments. This list of great people is headed by His Majesty King George and his list of quotations is worthy of being reproduced for its own sake as well as for the eminence of the one who uses it. These sentiments that hang in his workroom at Buckingham Palace read:

Teach me to be obedient to the rules of the game.

Teach me to distinguish between sentiment and sentimentality, admiring the one and despising the other.

If I am called upon to suffer, let me be like a well-bred beast that goes away to suffer in silence.

Teach me to win if I may; if I may not, teach me to be a good loser.

Teach me neither to cry for the moon, nor to cry over spilled milk.

There is a fine philosophy of life in these various maxims. Their reading enables one to understand better the wisdom and restraint and good sense and understanding usefulness of King George during his reign. Fumble-folk fighting life's daily battles may find some inspiration in these maxims. They are here given to that end.

A THOUGHT

I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course. I have kept the faith.—Timothy IV.
 Faith is the heroism of intellect.—Chas. H. Parkhurst.

Loose Ends

There are plenty of thinkers to mope and to mope of. On Quadra Street—We approach an era of nature of health—A local audit is annoyed—We agree to reduce food and decrease hunger—and the first acorn is down.

By H. B. W.

THINKERS

ON QUADRA STREET is a church which always displays on an outdoor blackboard a motto or aphorism which inspires passers-by like me on our way from the wicked city to this innocent countryside. This week the motto said that it was the duty of every serious thinker to add his share to the common store of thought, or words to that effect.

I can see no need for such a suggestion. It can only add to our confusion. The chief trouble in the world to-day is that so many people are adding their thoughts to the common store that the common store of thought has grown too large ever to be managed. It has swelled and overflowed in all directions in utter chaos. Why, you can't find a man on the street, from the street cleaner to a member of parliament, who isn't adding his thoughts to the common store; who hasn't a sure way to cure the depression and heal all our hurts overnight.

Before the depression men were content to talk about things they understood—the price of eggs, the weather, or their golf scores. Now, no one is content unless he delivers a final verdict on the future of our civilization and the doom of the economic system at least half a dozen times a day. Everybody is thinking furiously and against time. Everybody has a Plan. Everybody has a theory about the depression, from Mr. Bennett, who thinks tariffs are too low, and Mr. King, who thinks they are too high, to Mrs. Glumby, who attributes the whole business to the decline of egg prices, and Mr. Puddbury, who would lynch all communists and share all property in common.

The world is overrun and crawling with serious thinkers. They spring at you from behind every corner. They rush into the newspapers and the election. They assault you on Government Street and, in final desperation, write letters to this column. There are so many thinkers adding their share to the common store, so many programmes for saving the world that, in the writer, no two men can agree on anything, no national conference can get anywhere. There are so many plans for saving the world that no one can do anything about saving it, because no man will support another's plan. I think maybe that church on Quadra Street should get a new motto before anyone else adds his share to the common store. The world can't stand much more.

NO SCOFFER

I HAVE BEFORE me an indignant letter from a fellow who thinks I have been teasing him too lightly. As a practicing nudist (apparently in the seclusion of his back yard, because the authorities here are inclined to be stodgy, old-fashioned and Victorian) this gentleman predicts that scoffers like me will shortly be humiliated by the triumphant sweep of nudism across the world. Maybe we shall. A lot of thinkers would be humiliated if they had to take their clothes off.

But actually I am no scoffer. I expect nudism to become general. I expect the nude to become the accepted standard of society and officialdom. I expect a few years hence I shall be writing a simple and chaste record like this:

"The thirtieth Legislature of British Columbia opened to-day in a radiant state of nature. Most of the old and stuffy formality of the old days had disappeared, but enough of the ancient pomp and color of British parliaments was maintained to recall to the minds of old-timers the days when the human form was considered respectable. One or two elder statesmen of the Conservative school appeared in old-fashioned trousers, which caused a good deal of amusement, and His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, as a concession to form, wore a cocked hat and a sword.

"In ancient times, during the Great Depression, the government members, according to contemporary accounts, always appeared sheathed in unhygienic and inhuman tail-coats with barbaric grey trousers and yellow primroses in their lapels. The opposition, being poorer, wore the ordinary clothing of that era with red carnations as a sign of protest. At that savage period clothes were often used to emphasize the difference between various classes, an un-Christian arrangement which has happily disappeared in our time, when all men look alike. But as a quaint note from the past, the government members, having no lapels, carried the traditional yellow primroses, or wore them in their hair. The blooms came, as they have since in memorial times, from the garden of an ancient man named Pooley in Reginald, who attended the ceremony completely clothed and quite indifferent to the jeers of the crowd, a quaint figure indeed.

"Mr. Speaker's black robes, which used to accumulate dust and microbes and cause a high mortality among occupants of this post, have long since disappeared, of course, and so has the barbaric three-cornered black hat, a specimen of which may still be found in the museum, but as a special concession, the Speaker is now allowed to wear an eye shade and a wrist watch to limit the time of the members' speeches. The Prime Minister could be distinguished in the crowd, as usual, by his fountain pen."

HUNGER

THE NATIONS of the world, as this is written, are about to make an agreement for reducing their output of wheat and thus helping in a substantial way to end the present chaos in agriculture. This agreement will be an interesting exhibit for history to examine, when it gets around to considering our era. It will record that in the year 1933 about three-quarters of the world's two billion inhabitants got up hungry every morning and went to bed in the same condition every night. They will record that famine raged over a considerable area of savage countries and that in civilized nations a large part of the population didn't get enough to eat; that in the richest nation many people had died from the effects of starvation; that the health of a fifth of that nation's children was permanently undermined by lack of nourishment.

Yet they will find evidence to support the legend that, in the middle of this period of hunger, the world's leading statesmen met in London and solemnly agreed to reduce the output of food so that more people could eat. Of course, people reading about such things will consider it just a legend and will refuse to believe it. They will be still more incredulous if some sober scholar tells them that the statement of the world, under existing conditions, probably couldn't do anything else. To history it won't make sense, but we, with our superior intelligence, understand it perfectly.

COMING

BUT WHY worry about these things? The little girl from next door has just disposed of all our troubles. She came in here with a smug and suspicious black all over her arms and with a curious ring around her mouth.

"I was helping Mr. Puddbury to pick his blackberries," she said. "And I ate three, only three, and now I don't feel hungry for dinner. But you know what? Say, I've got a swell secret, all right. The first acorns are down! Isn't that swell, though? You know what that means? It means that fall is just about here and it's only a little while to winter? And when winter comes, guess what? Snow! Lots of snow, deep and smooth all over the lawn. Yes, sir, pretty soon now, just a few days, and we'll be making great big snow men on the lawn, with carrots for noses and one of your old hats! When I think of the winter coming so soon I'm mighty glad my mummy got me at the hospital and brought me here. And mind you, it's only a short time now before the snow comes." So, my friends, why worry?

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST
 BY ALINE MICHALIS

Oh, the mind must have still for its solace
 Where thought flies from care and regret,
 As a bird by the storm beset,
 Some cling to the love of a dear one
 But my heart finds its peace in the vision
 Of sea gulls and wind-tossed foam.

For my haven, a low, white island
 Where the golden sand and the night
 And the white sea was like wine!

For the heart must have still for its comfort
 A refuge from worry and fret,
 And my thoughts seek that golden island
 A refuge from care and regret.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES

August 24, 1908

(From The Times Files)
 Having concluded a programme of speeches at Nanaimo, Ladysmith and Duncan, Ralph Smith, M.P., will be able to accept the invitation of the British Liberals to speak there on Friday evening next.

The International Fisheries Commission, consisting of B. T. Bastard, representing Canada; Dr. D. S. Jordan, president of the Leland-Stanford University, Palo Alto, Cal., representing the United States; John T. Nichols, a fishery expert; M. H. Stein, secretary to the commission, and D. B. Evermann, of Washington, D.C., arrived here Saturday and will leave for the premier at the Government Buildings.

By defeating the combined eleven counties of the choice of the best cricketers on the Pacific Coast, by five wickets on Saturday, the champion Victoria eleven proved without a shadow of a doubt that they are the best aggregation of cricketers in the northwest this year. H. Gillespie and Martin did the business between them and what little was left Meredith and Tyce completed.

The British Columbia swimming championships held at the Gorge on Saturday resulted in Vancouver obtaining three firsts and three seconds, while Victoria obtained two firsts and two seconds, and were the winners in the water polo match.

Other People's Views

VOLTAIRE IN THE MOVIES

To the Editor:—Some time ago we were treated to an American film in which we were shown Uncle Sam's ships sinking the German fleet in the Battle of Jutland, which, by the way, took place long before America even entered the war. More recently we were subjected, in "The Sign on the Cross," to a rehearsal of bogus Roman history of the kind that Gibbon expounded, two entered the war. More recently we were shown a compilation of the most revolting news-shots filmed since news-reels began. "The public" boomed the voice behind the screen "must be served." And how is it served? To satisfy an insatiable public every new sensation must, it seems, be outdone by something still more spectacular, no matter how false or depraved. And we are now, according to the advertisements, to be shown Voltaire as the "most intriguing scoundrel that ever lived."

What next? Is there no limit to the fabrications and absurdities of these people in their scramble for the box-office dollar? Imagine Voltaire as a "scoundrel!" That beloved Voltaire who, in the words of Prof. Hayes, "was the literary arbiter of the age of enlightenment," who contributed more to toleration and the decline of superstition than perhaps any other man—the man of whom Macaulay wrote, "Bigots and tyrants who had never been moved by the writings and curings of millions, turned pale at his name," and of whom Victor Hugo said, "Let us say it with a sentiment of profound respect: Jean-Voltaire smiled. Of that divine tear and that human smile is composed the sweetness of the present civilization." Voltaire a "scoundrel!" Indeed, what next?

The boy grinned. "Oh you college girls don't do nothing but look for jobs in June," he told her. "There's been a regular procession of girls, ever since the schools closed." She sighed, and took the elevator to the street floor. The last place was across the street.

But I know I can write. "No experience at all?" "No," she said. "What do you want to do?" "Anything." "Got plenty of nerve?" "Oh—yes." "Do you know what an Inquiring Reporter is?" "Yes. I've read the column in your paper. It's somebody who goes around asking questions, and then writes what people tell him."

PICKLED ONIONS

PACK IN JARS

Having skinned 3 1/2 peck of silver skin onions, sprinkle cup of salt over them and let stand for 2 hours. Now pour off brine and pack in bottles. Pour on some strong, cold vinegar with a teaspoon Colman's Mustard mixed in. Add 3 tablespoons whole spices. Seal and put away for few weeks before using.

You'll like the flavor of these "Pickled Onions." That subtle, appetizing tang will delight every member of the family. But—on no account forget that teaspoonful of Colman's Mustard.

WILL IMPROVE WATER SUPPLY

Courtesy to Borrow Funds For Development on Water-works System

Special to The Times

Courtesy, Aug. 24.—A water debenture by-law to authorize the borrowing of money by bond issue to build an improved water system will be introduced at the next meeting of the Courtenay City Council. The council will put the by-law through as soon as possible.

The work will cover the substitution of the eight-inch pipe between the intake and reservoir for a larger pipe. The cost of the new reservoir above the $3,500 provided in current revenue and other improvements will also be taken care of in this bond issue.

The City of Courtenay has agreed to bring forth to the council's attention by reports on the condition of the upper portion of the Puntledge River presented by Ald. Brown. He said he had seen conditions there that "he would not like to specify in regard to the water supply."

Ald. McKensie thought the taxpayers should be told something about this situation right away. Mayor Sumas agreed, saying that the larger pipe line giving a flow of water that would make the use of penstock water unnecessary must be in use before next summer.

Ald. McKensie reported the progress of excavation for the new reservoir going on well. Speaking of the Comox system he reported that it would cost a lot of money to put in air pressure valves, whereas it would cost to put in new pipe. He had investigated the lower levels of the Comox system where there were twenty services. He found more than the regulation half-inch service being used in almost every case.

Under these circumstances he had taken upon himself the responsibility of turning down the valves. Asked if this had improved the pressure at the houses on higher ground, Ald. McKensie said he had received no more complaints.

"The only other I had," she declared, "was a chance to model in a shop on Boylston street. I want to use my brain."

Molly was meeting Jack at half-past five. "He'll have to admit," she reasoned, "that there's nothing dumb about getting a position the very first day you look for one."

And when she met him, she clasped his arm happily. "Guess what?" she commanded. "You're going home?" he hazarded hopefully.

"I should say not," she chided. "You'd never guess. I'll have to tell you. I've a position. Jack! A perfectly wonderful position on a perfectly wonderful newspaper!"

"Is that so?" he was madly inquisitive. "Aren't you glad?" "Why should I be glad?"

He pressed her hand lovingly as he said a quick leave-taking. "All right, sweetheart, I didn't mean to be hateful. If you're glad, I'm glad. I'd some news of my own, and you sort of took the wind out of my sails, that's all."

"What's your news?" she was frantically polite. "I should say not," she chided. "You'd never guess. I'll have to tell you. I've a position. Jack! A perfectly wonderful position on a perfectly wonderful newspaper!"

PUMPER NEEDED AT CUMBERLAND

Improvements to Fire-fighting System Proposed By Council

Special to The Times

Cumberland, Aug. 24.—The City Council agenda was light this week.

Mayor Maxwell presided and Aldermen Ledingham, Henderson and Williams were present.

Ald. Henderson reported catch basins cleaned and water connections being made on the main street. Health, water and light committees reported everything in order.

Ald. Ledingham, for the fire wardens, reported a bush fire in the new town-site, to which the department had been called out. With reference to fire equipment he spoke of the need of obtaining certain attachments for city hydrants. Ald. Ledingham also spoke of the desirability of purchasing a pumper to be attached to the fire truck for the purpose of raising water pressure at a fire. It was useless, he stated, to send the fire department out to fight fire with the present water pressure, as the last fire had proved.

The city had the choice of inducing the B.C. Electric to change the water system or to buy a pumper. The cost of a pumper, which would be in the neighborhood of $1,000, was discussed.

DEATH INVESTIGATED

Edmonton, Aug. 24 (Canadian Press).—The city commissioner's investigation into the death of R. Vipond, whom it charged had died as result of being forced to do relief work while ill, has revealed the labor had nothing to do with the death.

Blind crayfishes, found in Ozark caves, have developed long hairs on their claws which act as sense organs and take the place of eyes in detecting prey.

Daughters of Empire Award Two Bursaries

Bernard Shipton of Victoria and Frances M. Wright of Kamloops Given $1,200 Scholarships for U.B.C. by Committee Yesterday Afternoon Under I.O.D.E. War Memorial Scheme

Two $1,200 bursaries, tenable at the University of British Columbia, were awarded under the war memorial foundation of the Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire, at a meeting of the I.O.D.E. provincial committee of selection yesterday afternoon. The bursaries were awarded to Miss Frances May Wright of Kamloops, daughter of Sgt. Frank T. Wright, who was permanently disabled at the battle of the Somme in 1916, and Bernard Shipton of Victoria, son of the late Lieut. Bernard Shipton, M.C., who was killed at the battle of Passchendaele in 1917.

TO TAKE SCIENCE
 Bernard Shipton is seventeen years old and was educated at the Sir James Douglas School and Victoria High School, passing his junior matriculation in 1922 with 89 per cent. He intends taking a science course and will attend Victoria College for the first year, taking three years at University of British Columbia.

Miss Wright is seventeen years old. She passed her junior matriculation in 1922 with 89 per cent. and her senior matriculation this year, making 76.8 per cent. In her elementary school work, Grade I to VII, she studied under the correspondence classes of the Provincial Department of Education, entering the Kamloops public school Grade VIII.

She took all her high school work, including senior matriculation at the Kamloops High School. Miss Wright will enter the second year arts course at the University of British Columbia.

SELECTION COMMITTEE
 The personnel of the selection committee follows: Mrs. Curtis Sampson, provincial president, I.O.D.E.; Mrs. Andrew Wright, provincial councillor, I.O.D.E.; Bishop Schiefel, Judge Lamson, Dr. S. J. Willie, superintendent of education; B. C. Nicholas, board of governors, U.B.C.; Fred Brand, B.Sc. (Oxon), U.B.C. Miss A. B. Cooke, provincial educational secretary, I.O.D.E. convenor.

From letters and reports received the members of the committee have every confidence that the two students receiving the awards for 1923 will maintain the high standard of work set by the I.O.D.E. bursary holders of B.C.

FUND REACHED $600,000
 These bursaries are open to the sons and daughters of men who were killed in the Great War, were permanently and seriously disabled or died from injuries received. In support of these and the post graduate scholarships (Overseas) a sum of over $600,000 was raised by the order in Canada.

The first provincial university bursaries were granted in 1920; the last awards will be made in 1937. The disbursement of the funds supporting these bursaries is so arranged that interest and principal is being used in such a way that as many bursaries as possible are granted each year. There must be nine, one in each province, but as many as seventeen were granted in one year; this year, fifteen, two coming to British Columbia. It is the fourth successive year that British Columbia has had two.

To-day's award brings the total in this province to twenty-two, a total value of $26,400.

I.O.D.E. PROUD OF STUDENTS
 The Provincial Chapter, I.O.D.E., is justly proud not only of the records made by its bursary holders at Victoria College and U.B.C., but by the records made by these students, who have gained other scholarships and perhaps even more of the splendid success that they are making in their respective positions in the provinces and in other parts of Canada.

Ten post-graduate scholarships, overseas, have been awarded in this province—the total value (including travelling expenses allowed to students of the four western provinces) is $15,200.

Miss Idelle Wilson, who holds the 1932-34 scholarship, recently left for England, where she will take up her post-graduate work at the University of London. These overseas scholarships constitute the permanent I.O.D.E. war memorial, only interest on the capital fund being used for the purpose.

Other members of the executive are: The Misses Marlene Merrick, Betty O'Brien, Isabel Mackenzie, Jean Finlay, Helen Harris and Edmund W. (Monty) Christopher, Brian Burdett, Murphy, Bill Bowman and Jack Watson.

After some discussion it was definitely decided to procure a suitable hall which could be a permanent meeting place and so enable the society to produce plays at each meeting, which will help to bring out the dramatic talent of the organization.

The executive will commence at the coming season. The conveners of the society will be announced by Dr. A. Baran, Brooklyn physician, who addressed the society's annual convention. Dr. Baran declared birth control is "equivalent to murder."

Miss Clara Wechter was hostess to the members of her bridge club yesterday evening at her home on Wilson Street, in honor of Miss Dorothy Kay, who is to be married shortly. During the evening a presentation was made to the guest of honor, the joint gift of the club, and accompanied by their felicitations and good wishes. The guests included Miss Kay, Mrs. R. Myra, Mrs. H. Colman, Mrs. Alex. Stewart, Mrs. R. G. Graves, Mrs. Owen Fowler, Mrs. W. Erickson, Mrs. L. Coltrani, Mrs. T. J. Wechter, Miss Olive Rines, Miss Vera McNaughton, Miss Edna Jenkins, Miss Helen McKie and Members of the Sketch Club of the Island Arts and Crafts Society will be the guests of Mrs. J. Newberry Hatch, Gonzales Hill, on Monday afternoon. Last Monday the members visited Macaulay Beach, where they obtained some attractive sketches.

Mrs. T. L. Evans of Chicago, formerly Miss Irene Pringle, who has been spending the summer months in Victoria as the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Hall, Grantmore Road, left yesterday for Los Angeles, en route to her home in Chicago.

Miss Lottie Bowron of Victoria, who is in the Cariboo on one of her educational trips at present, was the official, was a guest of honor at the Cariboo Gold Quart Mine, where the Vancouver Board of Trade party, now touring the Cariboo, gave a luncheon. Miss Bowron, one of that small group of adventurers who made the Cariboo their home, was born in eastern Canada to Cariboo in '22 to serve for many years as gold commissioner at Barkerville.

At the Palais de Danse yesterday evening a large crowd of dancers were on the floor of the ballroom enjoying the delightful dance numbers played by the "Tribesmen" orchestra. A delightful number of dainty Barbara Groves was vociferously applauded when she appeared as a "Guardian" who had her pep into to-day's army.

Weddings
 WILLIAMS-ANDERSON
 Courtesy, Aug. 24.—A popular young couple of this district were united in marriage at Parkville on Sunday morning, when Dr. M. W. Lees officiated. The bride, Lillian Victoria Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson of Parkville, and Frederick Sidney Williams, eldest son of C. F. Williams and the late Mrs. Williams of Victoria, was the bride. The bride was dressed in white organdy with shoes and lace mitts to match, and wore a three-quarter length veil held in place by a spray of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white gladioli and gypsophylla. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ethel Anderson of Vancouver, in blue organdy with pink sash, mits and picture hat and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli and gypsophylla. The groom was attended by his brother, Stanley Williams. After the ceremony, luncheon was served. The table was tastefully decorated with golden nasturtiums and yellow tapers. The young people are spending their honeymoon in Victoria and Butte Lake. The bride's travelling costume was a green plaid dress of silk crepe with cream collar and cuffs, dark brown waist coat with dark collar, hat and accessories to match. The bridegroom's attire set with turquoise and pearl. The bride's gift to the groom was a signet ring. McNEIL-TOMASSI
 Cumberland, Aug. 24.—A quite wedding of much interest to Cumberland and Campbell River residents was solemnized on Saturday evening at the Anglican Church, Sandwick, by the Rev. F. G. Chapman, when Miss Marie Tomassi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tomassi of Cumberland became the bride of Allison Robertson McNeill of Campbell River. The bride, who was a smart ensemble in white crepe with hat, shoes and accessories to match, was attended by Miss Enis Bonora, who wore pink silk crepe with white crepe satin puff sleeves, white hat, shoes and accessories. The young couple will make their home in Campbell River. On Wednesday evening of last week, a number of friends of Miss Tomassi arranged a shower in her honor at the Memorial Hall, which was largely attended. Prize winners for which were Miss Joie Burghimer, Mrs. J. Stuart and Mrs. C. Tomassi. The many gifts were brought into the room in a gaily decorated wagon by Doretta Brown and Dorothy Bogo, and the guest of honor was assisted in opening and acknowledging them by the Misses Enis Bonora and Joie Burghimer.

Outstanding Success$350 Netted For St. Paul's Garrison Church By Garden
Party YesterdayLieut.-Governor Among 600
Guests; Army and Navy
Contribute to SuccessA grand total of approximately $350 is the very gratifying sum netted for the funds of St. Paul's Garrison Church at Esquimalt as the result of the very successful garden fete held yesterday afternoon and evening in the spacious grounds of "Wychbury," Lamson Street, the home of Major and Mrs.
A. G. Middleton.The proceedings were opened by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, who referred to the interesting history of the old church. Accompanying His Honor were Mrs. Fordham Johnson and Major Seiden Humphries, the party amusing themselves with side shows and competitions until 5 o'clock.The grounds, bathed in brilliant sunshine and gaily decorated with flags, presented a lively picture as a gathering of over 600 guests entered wholeheartedly into the splendid programme which had been arranged for them by the united efforts of the navy, army and church committees
under the leadership of Lt.-Commander P. L. Houghton. Popular music was provided by the band of the First Battalion Sixteenth Canadian Scottish Regiment, who played almost continuously during the afternoon, adding greatly to the enjoyment.NOVEL SIDE SHOWS
As always when the army and navy take a hand there was an air of jollity throughout. The side shows, in the hands of the services, were conducted with an unflagging vim which intrigued the onlookers and drew forth the dimes and nickels almost unwillingly. Especially fascinating was the magic bowl into which it looked so easy and proved so difficult to drop two out of five cents and thus win a prize.
There were also coconut shies, a game of mystery. A string of ponies provided by Major Middleton proved a continuous delight to the children, as did the "kiddie" corner, with its miniature roundabout, switch-back railway and rocking horses. A mystified crowd was always to be found gazing at a magic well into which water flowed from a tap set in a plain pane of glass.The prettily-decorated booths drew much attention. Many original ideas were to be found among the garden utilities offered at the stall, conceived by Captain C. R. Parker. There also were to be found dainty Colonial bouquets made up by Miss Pooley, Mrs.
C. R. Parker, assisted by Miss Joy
Phillips, provided over the lamping delicacies at the home-cooking stall.The bazaar, which was the main feature of the afternoon, was a delicious success. Mrs. F. L. Houghton and Mrs. F. O. Hart disposed of a large stock of delicious home-made candy.AFTERNOON TEA Afternoon tea was daintily served in a large marquee and at small tables on the lawn. Mrs. G. S. Bismarck, E. A. Barclay, Mrs. J. E. McDonald and Mrs. W. W. Phillips were responsible for the excellent arrangements.
The waitresses were Mrs. J. Watts and the Misses Peggy McDonald, Cecily Pullen, Betty King, Vera Gene and Jean Reynolds. Lady Emily Walker took charge of the tickets. This committee continued their strenuous work during the evening when light suppers were served. Tea and coffee with service was kindly donated by the Hudson Bay Company.Miss Mayhew, who read telegrams in an adjoining booth, was kept very busy. Two other fortune-tellers had also waiting lists. Doctor Couper specializing in fortunes of men, while Mrs. Porteous delved into the more romantic future of the ladies.

Another great attraction was the house-to-house table, in organizing which Mrs. Quinn had the assistance of a lady sailor, Miss Lucy Brydon, in Russian peasant costume, was a dainty, dainty silver, and Miss

"Tommy" Wilson in debonair soldier's uniform initiated many into the mysteries of a punch board.
Miss Geraldine Paterson delighted her audience with a graceful solo dance,
"Pink Lady," accompanied by the band, her performance being repeated in the evening under the floodlights.
After dusk the grounds took an added beauty from the brilliance of hundreds of colored electric lights and appropriate music floated from the balcony where Donald Wood's orchestra and the Sobriestri trio gave a delightful and appropriate programme.
At 9 o'clock all remaining goods were auctioned off by W. Stephen Lloyd who made a stentorian auctioneer.PRIZE WINNER
The prize winners were announced as follows: Tombola, first, a ton of coal, won by Miss Marjorie Hall, number 11891; second, silver dessert knives, Samuel Tanner, number 11892; third, copper bowl, Mrs. M. M. M. number 11893. Field archery, convened by R. D. Young, prizes were awarded to Lady Emily Walker and Capt. J. E.
McDonald. Child's event, donated by Mrs. F. M. Hall, won by Mrs. L.
Jarvis, number 1190. Rocking horse, won by Mrs. R. O. G. Morton, who conducted the event.HEATHER DAY
ON SATURDAYDeparture of First Contingent
Overseas to Be Observed
By I.O.D.E.Saturday marks the anniversary of the departure from Victoria of the first contingent of overseas troops on August 28, 1914, and the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter I.O.D.E., in accordance with annual custom, will again commemorate the historic date by selling aprils of heather on the street.
The chapter presented each man on his departure that day with a sprig of heather, "for luck." The members hope that any survivors of that little army will visit the headquarters and sign the chapter's "visitors' book."
The headquarters will be at 519 Wey Street, just below Broad Street, and anyone who is willing to help in selling the heather for the chapter will obtain supplies there, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The heather has arrived from Uchester, and will be prepared for sale at Municipal Chapter headquarters, 202 Union Building, on Friday, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 5 p.m., and members are requested to assist in this work.The proceeds of the sale of heather constitute the chapter's income for the patriotic work of the order, and the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter hope and ask for the generous support of the general public and the interest in the chapter's continued effort to preserve the memory of the gallant men who left Victoria for the Great War on August 28, 1914.STAFF ENJOYS afternoon, when upwards of 100 mem-families and friends, enjoyed a diversified programme of entertainment.Immediately on arrival at the grounds, swimming proved to be the big attraction, after which a varied sports programme was run off. During the evening sports teams were organized, and the games, while lacking strict adherence to rules, provided plenty of amusement. The return to town was made about 8 o'clock.At the conclusion of the sports, the

Caterpillar

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

Uncle Wiggily was sitting on the boardwalk near his seashore shack one day early in the morning. It had been hot for two or three days, but the rabbit gentleman had a cold hole filled with ice near his shack and in this cold hole he and his wife and Nurse Jane and all the bunny children could get cool whenever they wanted to.Mr. Whitewash, the Polar Bear gentleman, had brought the ice from his North Pole home.
"So everything here is just fine and dandy now," said Uncle Wiggily to himself as he sat on the boardwalk.
"I must find some way to have an adventure, though. I haven't had an adventure in quite a while. I wonder whether I might find one if I hopped along the boardwalk."The rabbit gentleman was just going to get up and hop along when all of a sudden, he felt something tickling him inside his left ear.
"That's funny," said the bunny. "I wonder if I forgot to wash my ear this morning." Uncle Wiggily was very clean. Every morning he not only washed his ears, but he washed behind

"Whisper" he said

them. He felt sure he had done so this morning, but of course he knew he might have made a mistake, so he put up his paw to feel of his ear where it was tickling.To his surprise, Uncle Wiggily felt something soft and fuzzy in his ear.
"Could I have left a piece of my bath sponge in my ear when I washed this morning?" whispered the rabbit gentleman. He pulled out his paw from his ear and saw on it a big, brown, fuzzy caterpillar."Oh, my goodness!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "Where you in my ear?"
"Yes," answered the Caterpillar, "I was.""Please crawl away. Hump yourself!" said Mr. Longear politely as he put the brown, fuzzy Caterpillar down on the boardwalk bench where he was sitting. "I don't like Caterpillars in my ear."So the fuzzy chap crawled away by humping his back up and down like a baby camel and Uncle Wiggily began thinking of how he could have a jelly adventure. All of a sudden he felt something strange in his right ear. It was a tickling feeling."Oh, my goodness!" exclaimed the rabbit gentleman. "Did I forget to wash that ear?"
He put in his paw and pulled out the same brown, fuzzy Caterpillar
again.M'divanis Lose
First Round In Fight Over OilLos Angeles, Aug. 24 (Associated Press).—The two Georgian princes, David and Serge M'divanis, yesterday lost the first round of the legal battle with their estranged wives, Mrs. Murray, film actress, and Mary McCormick, opera singer, over control of their Venice oil wells.
Superior Judge E. H. Wilson denied the princes' motions to vacate the re-ceivership of whatever interest the M'divanis have in several oil companies. The motions were denied after an attorney, S. F. Bledsoe, representing the princes, charged a conspiracy existed between Miss Murray and the singer to "mislead the court" in obtaining the receivership.Uncle Wiggily let the brown, fuzzy Caterpillar crawl on his paw and then the rabbit gentleman lifted the little chap up until he was close to the rab-bit's ear.
"Now whisper," said the bunny.
"What I want to know," said the Caterpillar, "is where can I get cool?"
Uncle Wiggily said to him, "Hop overcast winter and summer. In winter it's all right, for I crawl into a cozy hole and sleep for days and nights and months. But it is no fun to have to wear a fur overcoat on a hot day in summer. Can you tell me where I can get cool even with my fur coat on?"
"Yes," said Uncle Wiggily, "I can. I'll let you stay in my cold hole. It's a sand cave filled with ice. Come with me."
But just as Uncle Wiggily was going to take the Caterpillar to the cold hole, something happened. It fell into a hole it-to-morrow night, when the story will be called Uncle Wiggily and the Sea Lion. And I hope the pussy cat doesn't wrap herself up in a piece of the front porch striped awning and make herself look like a circus sebra.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

DISCIPLINE AND GOOD DISCIPLINE ARE DIFFERENT

A mother thinks of discipline in two ways, as a restraining force, and as a punishment. When she prevents a child from acting in some way that displeases her, or she punishes him for disobeying her orders, she considers both courses discipline. So it is. In my estimation the difference lies in the fact that it is discipline, but not good discipline.

TRAINING, EDUCATION

Good discipline is primarily training and education. The child takes a match, as he has seen adults take matches. He imitates their action and lights the match. He lights smoke paper. His mother screams, snatches him away from the flames, and punishes him severely so that he will never, never touch a match again. She considers that good discipline. I do not. I feel that the moment a child is old enough to strike a match he should be shown how to do it, how to be careful with matches, how successfully he can handle them if we are on hand, how necessary it is not to use them alone. Until the fascination of matches has worn off, we put the box out of reach to be sure he doesn't play with them alone.

We think of the child as often as we think of ourselves and realize that everything we do all day long, meals on time, bed on time, baths on time, outdoor play on time is as much discipline as a spanking, and far better discipline. It accustoms the child to orderly, regular habits. His conformity to the routine we install is obedience and its daily observance is good discipline.

MAKE IT AGREEABLE

No one can act in the world exactly as he would like to act. We are disciplined by a thousand rules and regulations of conduct that are set up for the good of the multitude. The child learns this sort of discipline in his daily life, and he is to be pitied if he doesn't learn it in the agreeable way which gives a liberty when it curtails one, in the reasonable way that says, "No one can do exactly as he pleases, and neither can you."

The kinds of punishment which we may devise for infringement of necessary rules should be few. Children can be taken away from situations in which they are naughty, or they can have the tempting situations removed from them. They can be brought in to be washed, to be put to bed, to go to the table if words are ineffectual. Calm enforcement of the rule is just as much discipline as letting children disobey and then spanking them. The average child needs few other punishments than temporary banishment from the family circle. Let discipline be a steady, guiding, intelligent education rather than fearful prevention or mean punishment.

CHICAGOAN GETS DEATH SENTENCE

Associated Press
Chicago, Aug. 24.—Morris Cohen, first of the recent police killers to face trial, was found guilty by a jury yesterday after an hour's deliberation and given the first death sentence to mark Chicago's three weeks' drive against crime. Prosecutors read from a confession allegedly made by Cohen the story of how he had planned the robbery of a city paymaster's office on Municipal Pier. Policeman Joseph Hastings arrived during the robbery and was killed.

LAND SETTLEMENT

To the Editor:—I trust you will find space for me to call the attention of all interested in "land settlement" to the book entitled "Outcasts of Canada," or "Why Settlements Fail," by G. Frapp, published by Blackwood. The book deals with the Okanagan, Vancouver Island and Vancouver. The "ups and downs" of Mr. Frapp and his wife speak volumes for present and intending settlers.

"HE WHO LAUGHS LAST, LAUGHS BEST!"

To the Editor:—It has been our experience that however much a man may boast about his unbelief in God and the Bible while things go well with him, he often changes his mind when suddenly called upon to go through the valley of the shadow of death. And he who used to get so easily the laughter on his side realizes then the truth of the saying: "He who laughs last, laughs best!" for only he who has put his trust in the Lord Jesus Christ can joyfully say under similar circumstances: "Yes, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil for Thou art with me." Allow us to relate a striking instance where a "first laughter" did wisely change into a "last laughter." It happened in one of our western hospitals. We pointed out to a young man, who was slowly dying, his behavior and language were such as to make the nurses dread to have to attend him. One day the matron asked us if there was anything we could do with him. We went to see him and told him point blank that we wished to speak to him about his soul's eternal welfare. He would allow us to do so now or at a more convenient time in the near future? "Come to-morrow!" he growled back. The next day found us at his bedside. We pointed out to him that "it is appointed unto man once to die and after this the judgment," also "That God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through Him might be saved!"

After two or three brief successive visits he began to realize the precarious condition of a sinner out of Christ and he asked us to make it very plain to him what he had to do to be saved, requesting our prayers in his behalf. We replied: "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, confess Him with your mouth, believe in your heart that God has raised Him from the dead, and you shall be saved." The following day, upon entering his room, his face was beaming with joy as he exclaimed: "I have found my Saviour!" and, turning towards the doctor who just then came in, he said: "Doctor, I am saved, I can now die in peace! How much longer have I to live?" "About a fortnight!" "And by how much would my life be shortened were I to go to all my fellow-patients in this hospital and tell them the way of salvation?" "By about one week!" "Good! I gladly give half the time that's left me to tell others what the Lord has done for me!" "From a medical standpoint I can not consent to this," the man then, turning to us, said: "Here are a few dollars, buy with them some gospel tracts, and after I'll have gone, distribute them in my name, telling my story to all who care to listen." He then went on to say: "While in good health, I enjoyed life to the full and it finally brought me here. I belong to several clubs and associations and I have many friends, but you, though a stranger, I consider the best friend I have ever had, for in my dire need you brought to me, not the vain things and hopes of this world, not a creed, not a sect, not a religion, not your opinion, but Jesus only!"

The matron wondered what we had done to the man, for, said she: "From a 'howling lion' he is now as gentle as a lamb, and the nurses are now vying with each other to attend to him." Such is the power of God's Holy Spirit in a man's life if he "let go and let God!" When, shortly afterwards, he passed away, he left a bright testimony to the saving power of Him "Who came to seek and to save that which was lost."

If we refuse to believe in last-hour testimonies we may as well doubt the dying words of our departed friends and mothers; doubt the countless martyrs; doubt the sincerity of the repentant thief on the cross; yes, doubt the very cry of our dying when He exclaimed triumphantly: "It is finished!"

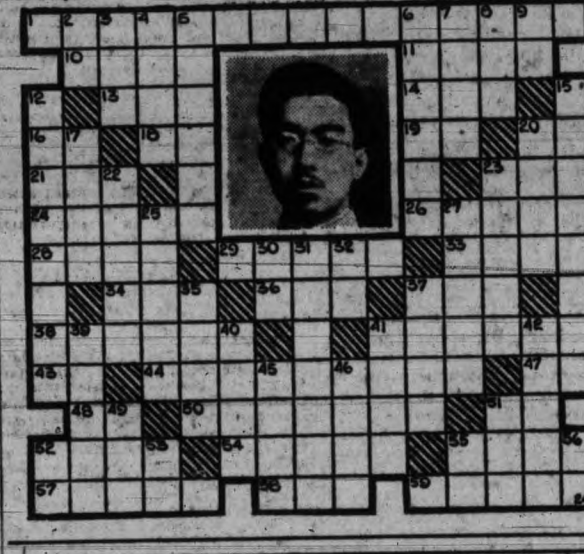

Many such doubters be fewer each day and may the number greatly increase or those of whom it is said in Psalm cxviii: 6: "They that sow in tears shall reap in joy. He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him." This is as it were God's sublime expression of the popular sentiments that "He who laughs last, laughs best!"

Eye in dim light (left) and in bright light (right).

The colored part of the eye is known as the "iris." It is a ring of muscle fibres, and the hole in the middle is called the "pupil." Like the hole in a doughnut, the pupil is a place rather than a thing.

There is dark coloring matter at the back of every blue eye; but in the case of a brown eye or a hazel eye additional coloring, or pigment, has been added. Yellow, white or reddish brown pigments combine with the blue to form the several colors which we see.

Now and then (but not very often) an albino child is born. A true albino does not have any pigment in his eyes. They may be reddish or pink, but that comes from blood-vessels in the iris, not from pigment.

Quite aside from its color, the iris is of intense interest—for it has a special power of motion. There are circular muscles in it which pull together when the light is bright, making the pupil small. In dim light, these muscles let go and the pupil becomes much larger.

Since the pupil is just a hole, we may figure out easily why it should be large in dim light and small in bright light. Light rays do not pass through the colored ring but through the hole inside it. This hole, the pupil, must be large in dim light in order to let in as much light as possible.

The retina looks black, but it is not really so. If it were black, we should not be able to see the way we do. Put on a pair of dark glasses, and notice how different the world looks to you! Doctors who treat the eyes send a beam of electric light through this pupil which seems so black to us, and thus are able to study the retina which lines the eyeball.

At the place where the fibres of the retina join together to form the optic nerve, is the famous "blind spot." This is present in all normal eyes. If you wish to prove that you have a blind spot, place a cross on a sheet of paper two inches to the right of the cross, place a small circle, say a quarter of an inch in diameter. Hold the paper about a foot from your eyes. Close your left eye, and look at the cross with your right eye. You should be able to see the circle as well as the cross; but draw the paper toward you slowly, and there should come a point where if you do this correctly the circle will vanish from sight.

The leaflet called "Marvels of the Eye" contains a diagram showing sizes of the planets and their distance from the sun. It tells about Donati's comet and other wonders. If you want a copy, without charge, send a stamped return envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

BODY OF BOY AMONG GREAT

Former Vancouver Youth Resting Temporarily in Winchester Cathedral

Associated Press
Winchester, Eng., Aug. 24.—In famous Winchester Cathedral, historic burial place of kings and chancellors, lies the body of a boy who formerly lived in Vancouver. He was killed in an English railway disaster.

The body is that of Roderick MacDonald Duthie, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Duthie of Portland, Ore. Until recently the family had resided in Vancouver. The boy was killed in a train wreck at Reynes Park last May.

Mrs. Duthie brought the body of her son to rest in state in the beautiful Chapel of the Guardian Angel, where it will remain until taken home for burial near Portland at the end of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Duthie, who have with them another son, Tommy, aged thirteen, are on a business trip in England, and the Dean of Winchester granted them the privilege of leaving the body in this resting place of kings and chancellors until they are able to return to Portland.

The chapel recently has been attracting more attention than the cathedral. Canine and other early English, and the Dean of Winchester granted them the privilege of leaving the body in this resting place of kings and chancellors until they are able to return to Portland.

"King's Soldiers" Being Held Over

So popular has the British picture, "Soldiers of the King," been in Victoria during the last few days, that the Capitol Theatre management has decided to hold over the picture for the balance of the week.

"Soldiers of the King" is one of the most striking productions ever made by the Gaumont-British picture corporation, with the queen of English comedy, Cicely Courtneidge heading the cast. The farcical humor has a background of tender romance, supplied by the tale of an actress who found herself in love with a guardsmen, who in turn was forbidden to marry an actress. Edward Everett Horton plays opposite Miss Courtneidge and the production is of the finest quality.

BUSTER KEATON AT PLAYHOUSE

"Sidewalks of New York," with Buster Keaton in a hilarious series of mishaps while attempting to re-establish himself in the New York City district, is being shown at the Playhouse Theatre.

The frozen-faced Buster gets plenty of exercise. In fact, he goes into antics in a big way, and perhaps comes closer to the old Buster of the silent days than he ever has since the talkies came into being.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star plays a millionaire's son. He owns blocks of tenements and meets a pretty girl who lives in one of them. So he falls in love with her and undertakes to tame her small brother.

Also being shown on the same programme is "A Study in Scat."

NAPOLEONIC STORY AT EMPIRE FRIDAY

Luis Trenker, who played the role of Severin Andrian in "The Rebel," the Universal Special coming to the Empire Theatre Friday, is a continental maline idol as well as noted Alpine climber. He was born in the little town of St. Ulrich in the Austrian Tyrol, and as a boy took up mountain climbing and mountaineering as a hobby and a means of livelihood. His first work in motion pictures was done under the direction of Dr. Arnold Fanck, and pictures for Ufa and Italia. Following "The Son of the White Mountain" he gained much favorable comment.

"The Big Chance" is now at the Columbia Theatre.

Teeming with speed, dramatic action and a very real love story, this new movie reaches a new high in entertainment value because it combines the best features of many pictures, rolls them into one and emerges as "The Big Chance."

John Darrow and Merrra Kennedy are starred in this new film and they prove conclusively that they are a couple of the best juvenile actors in Hollywood. The supporting cast has very evidently been chosen with the greatest of care.

OKANAGAN SEES BRIGHTER DAYS

P. Wilson of Vernon Says Apple and Peach Crops Are Good

With fruit prices in the south trending upwards under the NRA, people of the Okanagan are expecting higher prices and an increased demand this fall on this side of the border, according to P. Wilson, retired, of Vernon, who arrived at the Empress Hotel to-day.

Cherry and apricot crops of the Okanagan were just fair this year, but the apple and peach crops now coming on are both quite good. Mr. Wilson said. These good crops with rising prices would result in a much larger sum of money being brought into the Okanagan for distribution among grove business men and other residents than last year.

Mr. Wilson denied the report that he had come to Victoria on politics. "Which paper are you from?" he asked when queried about the political outlook in the Okanagan, which embraces the constituency of Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance.

When he was told that the writer was from the Times which was not supporting the Tolmie Government, Mr. Wilson then replied:

"Oh, well, then, for you things up there would look pretty good."

LAST TRIBUTE TO JAMES RENFREW

About 400 sorrowing friends attended the funeral yesterday of James Renfrew, the services being conducted at the Odd Fellows Hall, under the auspices of the I.O.O.F. Alex McCabe was in charge as noble grand, assisted by C. Brown as vice-grand, and E. E. Coombs as chaplain.

The front of the hall was banked high with the many beautiful floral tributes, a number also covering the casket. During the service the hymns sung were "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Rock of Ages," and Percy Edmonds sang a solo. "There is No Death."

Among the congregation was a big representation of members of the Rebekah, Eastern Star and Masonic orders, as well as a large delegation from Yarrow's shipyard, where Mr. Renfrew was foreman for many years. Officers and members of No. 1, I.O.O.F., conducted the graveside service at Royal Oak Burial Park.

The following acted as pallbearers: R. Livingston, J. Hubbard, G. McCann, R. Shaves, representing the Grand Encampment of Odd Fellows, W. E. Palmer, representing Yarrow's Limited, and A. W. Stewart, representing Quadra Lodge No. 2, A.F. & A.M.

Funeral services for Carl Peterson, who passed away yesterday morning at the Jubilee Hospital, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel. Interment will be in Ross Bay cemetery.

GOLDFISH CODE SETTLED
 After much fuss and worry, the goldfish and sausage-casing codes finally have been allocated to the NRA instead of to the A.A.A.

Reason: Goldfish are fish, but not eating fish, and sausage casing are produced by manufacture rather than raised for the market by farmers.

MANY CASH IN ON POLICIES

Insurance Loans and Surrenders Up Fifty Per Cent in Three Years

Figures Show Strength of Canadian Companies in Face of Depression

Loans on and surrenders of life insurance policies were again high during 1932 and it is estimated 20 per cent of the $300,000,000 of assets of the Canadian companies now consists of loans to policyholders—an increase of 50 per cent in the last three years, H. G. Garrett, superintendent of insurance for British Columbia, says in a report on the subject issued to-day.

Although the business of insurance during the depression has been subject to a more severe test than it has ever been called upon to face, Mr. Garrett comments, the failures have been conspicuously few. The figures for life insurance business written and in force in 1932 show a comparatively small decrease in both premiums and insurance in force is testimony to the strength and depth of life insurance in Canada.

IN GOOD SHAPE
 Figures compiled by the Dominion Department of Insurance, Mr. Garrett says, show that the amount of lapsed business during 1932 was 55 per cent of the business written and in force during 1931 nearly 46 per cent. This is the biggest problem facing the companies to-day. On the other side of the account they have endeavored to eliminate any extravagance and waste, and will be in good shape to take advantage of the return of prosperity. It has been suggested that the present scales for loans and cash surrenders values should be lowered, but no justification for that has been shown. It is quite likely that the experiences of the depression will lead to certain changes in the vital statistics of the Dominion Department of Insurance. The public may prefer "protection" in the form of non-participating policies to the "investment" type of policy with "profits," and the industry promises a big field of expansion.

A good many people were unfortunately obliged to rearrange the life insurance they were carrying, and the companies were ready to do their utmost to prevent a complete loss, says the Dominion report. "It is, however, the policyholder with this object in view, who is most likely to be successful."

One feature which Mr. Garrett felt was most indicative of the prosperity being experienced, was that freight importing this year was 800 tons greater than last year, the 1932 figures being 500 tons above those of 1931. Considering that this freight only reaches about 1,500 people, he was of the opinion that it was indeed a sign of prosperous conditions.

EXTENSIVE OPERATIONS
 The gold activity is being led by the Yukon Consolidated Company, which is now engaged in installing two new dredges in Quartz Creek. Dredging is also being done in Lower Forty Mile River and Sixty Mile River, he said. Hydraulic operations at Miller Creek are also yielding well.

The only quiet centre sound by the inspector was Mary, where the silver mines have practically ceased operations. The unemployment created by this, however, has been absorbed by the activity of the last year.

Individual miners are also staking good ground, explained Mr. Yardey, who met two French Canadians on the trail who had worked since last fall and made $1,000.

Tourist trade has slackened off in the Yukon this year, Mr. Yardey said, but the steamship companies were doing well with the increase in freight traffic. There is no perceptible influx of outsiders owing to the difficulty of getting into Dawson. Mr. Yardey stated, although another boom might prove an attraction to unemployed on the outside.

Mr. Yardey predicted that the output of gold from the Yukon this year would be between $50,000 and $60,000, greater than the last year.

RADIO TALENT FOUND IN WEST
 Artists of Note Discovered and Signed Up By Canadian Commission

Radio fans of western Canada are due for some musical treats, according to Thomas Maher, of the Canadian Radio Commission, who arrived in Victoria last yesterday to look over the radio situation here during his tour of the western provinces.

The feature of these musical treats, which will start in September 11 over the Canadian radio western hook-up, is that they will be produced by western Canadian artists, Mr. Maher said. During his trip he has been interviewing radio artists in the various cities and signing them up. The programmes produced for the Canadian western network will be put over a United States national radio hook-up, and in exchange for this, the Canadian hook-up will be supplied with an equally good programme of the same length at another time, he explained.

Mr. Maher said that with this all-western programme on once a week in addition to the programme brought through from eastern Canada, and the radio listeners of the west will be served better than they have been since Canadian national broadcasts entered the field.

"The artists who have been discovered in the west is as fine as any on this continent," said Mr. Maher. Among the discoveries made by the radio commission are the following: Chico Pando, an Argentinean dancer band, discovered in Winnipeg.

A twenty-three-year-old student who will be an international headline within a few months, also discovered in Winnipeg.

Jack Dale, a tenor with a charming voice, discovered in Regina.

A girl of twenty, who within a few months will be one of the outstanding sopranos of Canada, also discovered in Regina.

A variety orchestra of six sisters and one brother who play different instruments in a superb rendition, discovered in Vancouver.

YUKON AREA PROSPEROUS
 G. A. Yardey, Inspector of Customs, Finds No Unemployment in Dawson

Money Flowing Freely and Business Men Optimistic Over New Gold Finds

Dawson and the Yukon generally are due for another boom, which, although it will not be as great as the last one, will bring prosperity to that section of Canada, according to G. A. Yardey, Inspector of Customs, who yesterday returned from his annual inspection tour of the Yukon.

In Dawson, Mr. Yardey stated, there is no unemployment, all labor having been absorbed by recent activity in new gold finds.

Mr. Yardey spent seven weeks in the Yukon territory and during that time surveyed business conditions in practically every corner. New gold finds have aroused a wave of enthusiasm and money is being spent freely.

One feature which Mr. Yardey felt was most indicative of the prosperity being experienced, was that freight importing this year was 800 tons greater than last year, the 1932 figures being 500 tons above those of 1931. Considering that this freight only reaches about 1,500 people, he was of the opinion that it was indeed a sign of prosperous conditions.

REGINA EXHIBIT AT FAIR HERE
 Forty-foot Central Panel From World's Grain Exhibition to Be Seen Here

Later Date of Fair to Assure Better Quality Vegetables and Floral Exhibits

Perhaps the most outstanding exhibit in the Main Building at the Willows Exhibition, which is to be held from September 11 to 16, will be the forty-foot central panel of the British Columbia exhibit at the Regina World's Grain Exhibition, said D. B. McTavish, who is in charge of the displays in that building, this morning.

This will undoubtedly prove to be one of the most interesting and educational exhibits on the whole fair grounds, said Mr. McTavish. "We are very fortunate to have the opportunity to see this marvelous display."

This year, Mr. McTavish explained, the show was being divided into two parts. For the first three days of the week the exhibition will be devoted to annuals while for the last three days the display will be devoted to the display of the short wave radio equipment used by the department to be held in the city on the previous week.

NEW VARIETY
 A new variety of dahlias—the Lady Moyra Ponsomby—will be exhibited here for the first time. The flower has been cultivated by W. Elder and last year he was awarded the American Home Magazine medal for the best seedling dahlia grown in the western division. Mr. Elder is the first Canadian to take the medal out of the United States.

THIRD EPOCH OF B.C. SEEN

New Gold Development in the Cariboo Hailed By B. A. McKelvie Before Rotarians

Prophecy Made "Golden Harvest" Will Bring Prosperity Back to Province

Seeing the present as the third epoch in British Columbia's history through the new opening up of the Cariboo gold fields, B. A. McKelvie, managing-editor of The Colonist, prophesied that great prosperity would come to the province through its "golden harvest" in a speech before the Rotary Club to-day.

The first epoch in British Columbia's history, Mr. McKelvie said, was the publication of Cook's voyages in 1783, which brought trade and commerce to the province and the fur trading adventures.

The second epoch, he said, began in 1858 with the discovery of gold along the banks of the Fraser River. Now, just another seventy-five years afterward, the province, with attention being directed almost exclusively to the development of those gold veins which were to be found in such large quantities in British Columbia.

After graphically describing the early gold rush days, its origins and results, Mr. McKelvie went on to draw a sharp distinction between the placer mining of that day and the hard-rock mining of to-day. The latter required extensive preparation and capital and was unpracticed to any marked extent in the last century because of high costs, especially in transportation, wages and food.

WELLS FINDS IT
 The Cariboo decided to wait. Finally, there came the motor truck and the P.G.E., which the speaker said was a first-class railroad and was doing wonderful service to-day in the development of the Cariboo. But still financiers were skeptical. Then, three years ago, a stranger had wandered into the Cariboo, a hard-rock miner, Fred Wells. Struck by the rich veins he had seen, he had come to Vancouver and Victoria to raise money, but was given the cold shoulder. Going to Seattle he raised fifty-five per cent of the necessary funds and then traveled east to collect more.

To-day, the speaker continued, Wells was only half-way to the original goal, but he was well on his way and a fifty-ton truck was yielding $1,000 a day. Because the residents of Victoria and Vancouver had been men of little faith, only eleven per cent of the company's capital was raised. The result had been a rush into the Cariboo and the dawn of a great promise.

In quoting the opinion of Dr. Dawson, then of the Geological Survey of Canada, whom the speaker termed one of the greatest geologists the world has ever seen, Mr. McKelvie imparted the confidence the millions taken out of the Cariboo by the placer miners were only a sample of what was left in the hills. Long after the mines of California, Nevada, Arizona, and Utah had passed their peak, Dr. Dawson had said, the mines of British Columbia would be coming into their own.

"We haven't got one mine whose property hasn't been abandoned at one time or another," said Mr. McKelvie. "Instantaneous Premier, Pioneer, Bralorne, Britannia, Sullivan and Reno. Dr. Dawson, he considered, was right and the Cariboo was bringing property back to British Columbia."

Patrick Interleague Competition Plan To Invade Baseball

Was Successful In Hockey and May Pull Ball Clubs From Doldrums

Perry, Vines and Crawford Will Renew Battle Next Month

INTERLEAGUE competition in professional sport as introduced by Lester and Frank Patrick in hockey several years ago, when they staged contests between teams in the Pacific Coast Hockey League and the western Canada Hockey Association, is now being discussed as a possible solution to the stagnant state of affairs in the major baseball leagues. The proposition was put forth Tuesday by William L. Veck, president of the Chicago Cubs, and has met with the instant approval of four other clubs in the National League, and two in the American circuit. The idea of the plan is to pep up the interest of the fans during period between the first of July and middle of August. The major league teams in 1934, in former years the major circuit has always operated on a straight league, but after trying out the two-section idea it was adopted. With the two sections in operation the N.L. gets more clubs into the play-offs and creates more interest all around. Now the interleague plan threatens to break into major baseball.

The system of playing inter-league games is something the Patricks can take all the credit for introducing. The National Hockey League decided to split its teams into two sections, Canadian and American, with the clubs playing intersection fixtures, when it bought all the Western Hockey League teams in 1926. In former years the major circuit has always operated on a straight league, but after trying out the two-section idea it was adopted. With the two sections in operation the N.L. gets more clubs into the play-offs and creates more interest all around. Now the interleague plan threatens to break into major baseball.

In the United States men's singles tennis championships to be staged at Forest Hills, starting September 2, three men stand out above the remainder of the field. Fred Perry, Jack Crawford and Ellsworth Vines. For Perry the tourney will mean the opportunity to defeat again the best tennis stars America has to offer and establish himself as the number one ranking player of the world. For Crawford, that daunting devil-may-care player from Australia, it will mean a chance to indulge in his pet delight, upset the favorite by beating the big shot. For Vines the tournament will offer a chance to redeem himself after that Wimbledon defeat at Crawford's hands and in Davis Cup play by Perry.

Perry, who probably is the only man in tennis, outside of Crawford, to match Vines' terrific service, is making his fourth assault on the American singles title. The English star who learned his tennis on the grass courts of his greatest heights in Davis Cup competition this year. Eliminated in an early round upset of the Wimbledon singles by Parquharson of South Africa, Fred staged a comeback at Roland Garros Stadium to beat Vines and Allison, America's best, and Cochet and Meril, France's tennis faves.

Crawford, the fellow with "a wonderful sense of tennis anticipation," according to Perry, has given up his former carefree attitude toward the game and is enjoying a season of giant killing. His victory over Vines for the Wimbledon singles title has whetted his appetite for more, and he'll be out there with blood in his eyes. Jack's career has been the most erratic of tennis. He is indolent and easy-going, but he is also the most desperate fellow who ever glared across a net. He can sweat that pill as hard as the most of them, but his strength lies in rhythm, anticipation of his opponent's shots and his control. He's the kind of a player who makes hard shots look easy.

Vines' losses this season after a victorious 1932 season, and stirred deriding remarks. It was charged that he was overtrained, influenced by the psychological waves emanating from Marcell Bessey, coach of the American team, and that an enlarged head had a lot to do with it.

To give Vines the benefit of the doubt, a "trick" ankle probably brought about his collapse in Davis Cup play. The San Francisco Seahawk has placed a $20,000 prize tag on Joe Demaggio, the youngster who in his first year of professional ball, broke the consecutive hitting record of the league.

Vanderpool, that great thoroughbred of W. M. Moore who won fifteen consecutive turf victories, has been retired to the U.S. army's stud.

Lester Presented With Silver Tray By Mayor Leeming

One of Greatest Crowds in Local Sport History Attends Farewell Ball Game

GRAYS VICTORS OVER POLICEMEN

Rebel Mowat Stars in Last Inning Rally; Autographed Pucks Are Presented

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Patrick and their two sons, Lynn and Murray, will leave on Tuesday, en route to Montreal to take up residence, but for the remainder of their lives they will remember the rousing send-off thousands of Victorians extended to them at the Beacon Hill Park baseball diamond yesterday evening on the occasion of the charity game between Rebel Mowat and his Gray Line nine and the Victoria Police Department squad. Over 5,000 cheering admirers, both young and old alike, of the Patrick family turned out to bid grey-haired Les and his clan au revoir. It was one of the greatest spectacles in the history of sport in this city and shows the high esteem in which the Patrick family is held in this city.

The game was won by the Gray Line 12 to 11 with Rebel himself providing the story book climax in the eighth and final inning. With the score tied 11 to 11, two men out and two strikes on the batter, the entire crowd of the hill was jammed by automobiles. Old-timers declared they had never seen such a turnout for any sports event in Victoria.

GRAY CLIMAX
The game was won by the Gray Line 12 to 11 with Rebel himself providing the story book climax in the eighth and final inning. With the score tied 11 to 11, two men out and two strikes on the batter, the entire crowd of the hill was jammed by automobiles. Old-timers declared they had never seen such a turnout for any sports event in Victoria.

On completion of the game the thousands of people gathered around in a monster circle with Mayor Leeming and other leading citizens and Lester in the service clubs, addressed the huge crowd, expressing his gratitude to the organizers of Lester and his family from the Capital City and reviewing the activities of the family in the civic and sports life of Victoria since the arrival of Joseph Patrick, Lester's father, with his family some thirty years ago. Herbert Anscomb, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, the next speaker, expounded the citizenship and sportsmanship typified by Lester and congratulated Rebel and his teammates for the great work they have done this summer in their baseball games in the interest of charity.

MAYOR MAKES PRESENTATION
Mayor Leeming, acting on behalf of the citizens of Victoria, was then called upon to make the presentation to Lester. "It is with a great deal of regret that I make this presentation on the occasion of Mr. Patrick's departure from our city. Lester has always been an inspiration to me, and I hope his return will be in the very near future and the Mayor said. He then presented Lester with a magnificent silver tray engraved as follows: "Presented to Lester Patrick by the citizens of Victoria, B.C., as a token of esteem in recognition of their qualities of citizenship and sportsmanship. August 23, 1933."

Immediately on accepting the tray cries of "speech" could be heard from all parts of the crowd. Lester climbed up to a table and after giving over the thousands of faces for a few seconds said: "Friends, words fail me. My heart is just all agog. After pausing Patrick expressed his sincere appreciation to the citizens of Victoria for their kindness, and also thanked them on behalf of Mrs. Patrick and his two sons. "There is nothing I can say that will describe my feelings right now," he stated. Lester then paid glowing tribute to the wonderful work of Rebel Mowat in staging the comedy baseball games during this summer. "He is a (Turn to Page 13, Col. 3)

Five British Empire Pairs Win
Second Round Matches in Brookline Tourney

To-day's Matches Are Called Off

Fred Perry and Frank Wilde
Will Engage Shields and Parker To-morrow

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 24.—Owing to the unplayable condition of the Longwood courts, torn up in yesterday's matches played in rain, officials of the United States doubles tournament decided to hold over to-day's programme until to-morrow.

When the tourney resumes, Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill will engage Jack Tidball and Gene Mako, Los Angeles; Australia's Jack Crawford and Vivian McGrath meet George Lott and Lester Stoen; Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn will take on the other Aussies, Adrian Quist and Don Turnbull, and Fred Perry, England's Davis Cup ace, and Frank H. D. Wilde will encounter Frank X. Shields and Frankie Parker.

The onward march of British teams featured yesterday's play. Although playing under decidedly adverse conditions, Vines and Gledhill, defending titlists, managed to lead their strongest rivals into the round of eight. The five British Empire teams completed the second round with only one reversal.

INVASERS WIN
The heavier Australian team, Crawford and McGrath, two-footed back-hand swingers, stopped Berkeley Bell and Gregory Mangin, fifth seeded United States pair, in 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

The other Aussies, Quist and Turnbull, played in decisive fashion to trounce Henry Culley and Joe Coughlin, young Californians, in 6-3, 6-2, 6-4, and S. P. Young and D. S. Freshwater, British collegians, managed to get three match points on Shields and Eugene McCulliff, United States indoor champions, in 6-4, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

Vines and Gledhill—the latter playing in his bare feet—defeated Bryan Grant, Atlanta, and Karl Kamrath, Houston, 6-2, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4. Allison and Van Ryn won over Watson Washburn and A. McPherson, New York, 6-2, 6-2, 1-6, 6-3.

The second seeded British team, H. G. N. Lee and E. R. Avery, were eliminated, 7-5, 5-7, 6-6, 6-1, in second round play by Jack Tidball and Gene Mako of Los Angeles.

brilliant showman, and it is to be hoped this city will capitalize on his activity in coming years. Lester, who is interested in the city, is not going to say good-bye to you all, but just au revoir until we meet again next summer," Patrick concluded. On stepping down Lester was greeted with three rousing cheers led by Mayor Leeming.

AIRPLANE DROPS BALLS

Ten minutes after the opening of the game play was halted as Ernie Eves piloted an airplane over the field and dropped rubber balls. The first twenty people presenting these balls at the home plate were presented with hockey pucks autographed by Lester. With a wonderful clear sky the plane circling the hill made a beautiful sight.

The kiddies were not forgotten, and thousands of hot dogs were provided for their benefit by Dr. Charlie the "hot-dog king." However, the youngsters got a little too enthusiastic and in their anxiety threatened to wreck the hot-dog car with the result that Dr. Charlie had to make a hasty retreat from the scene with hundreds of kids racing after him. He returned later and dished out dogs by the handful. The scene around the car had the crowd in an uproar, with hundreds of youngsters clamoring to be served.

The handsome sum of $109.16 was collected for the benefit of the destitute children of Victoria. The money will be used to purchase clothing. Additional entertainment during the evening was a three-round wrestling bout between Lloyd Penlon and Manny Hopkins with Rebel as referee, and a strong man feat by Taka, while the Boys' Band rendered selections.

THRILLING GAME

The ball game was the most thrilling seen at the hill this summer. In their half of the first inning the police scored three runs, Rebel taking quite a time to get warmed up on the mound for the Grays. With Bun Cox showing the way by crashing a homer the Grays went on a scoring spree in their half to put six runs across the plate.

In the second frame Lynn Patrick, who along with his brother Muzz and Lester were performing for the Grays, slugged a terrific drive to right field for a home run to give the Grays their seventh run. The police added one in the third. Bun Cox's second circuit blow of the game in the last half of the third discounted that run.

The fifth and sixth-inning saw the

Macdonalds And Shawnigan Will Start Play To-night In Island Softball Finals

At the Upper Central Park grounds to-night at 6.15 o'clock, softball fans of Victoria will witness the first of a two-out-of-three-game series for the championship of Vancouver Island, the winner of which is scheduled to meet the leading mainland team for the British Columbia championship. This evening's game will bring together Macdonalds, the team which copped the Lower Island championship, and the Shawnigan Lake nine, which defeated all comers in competition for the mid-island and upper island honors. Performing on the mound for the visitors will be Elmer Evans, whose ability is widely praised by his followers. The Victorians will trot out Chuck Turner for a starter, who has been their most consistent pitcher of the current season. Bob Whyte and Edgar Borda will have charge of the game, which is expected to attract one of the largest crowds in local softball history. Whyte will call the balls and strikes while Borda will have charge of the base calls.

Police push home seven runs to take an 11 to 10 lead. Neither club scored in the seventh. The bluecoats failed to increase their lead in eighth, and the Grays went to bat still one run down. Bobby Ross got a walk, stole second and third and scored on a wild pitch to tie the score and the crowd cheered.

REBEL COMES THROUGH

Tommy Macdonald and Percy Fitzsimmons got on the bags, but the next two men went out in order. Rebel, including Bun Cox, Tommy Macdonald, Percy Fitzsimmons and Bill Cox.

Police—Bone, Donaldson, Stevenson, Belcher, McKenzie, Nicol, Parr, Banister and Clayards.

Allie McGregor and Eddie Hall were the umpires.

THE BIG SIX

Heinie Manush, continuing his heavy slugging, yesterday pounded out four hits in a double-header to climb into second place in the American League's half of baseball's Big Six. He displaced Al Simmons, who collected but one single in seven trips to the plate. As a result, the Washington veteran sent his average up one point to .342, while Simmons lost three, falling to .241. The remainder of the sextette were idle.

The standings:

Second Canadian World
Champion Will Stack Up
Against Three Top-notchers

New York, Aug. 24.—Canada's two wearers of world title crowns, Jimmy McLarnin and Lou Brouillard, will have small opportunity to pack their gloves in moth-balls if they follow a tentative schedule of bouts penned by Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, new president of Madison Square Garden.

McLarnin would defend his lightweight title against the fists of four leading contenders, under a programme released to-day.

Brouillard would pit his newly-won middleweight honor, against three topnotchers of that class in addition to meeting the light-heavyweight champion "Slapsy Maxie" Rosenbloom.

Kilpatrick would pit McLarnin against Young Corbett Third, the Italian who lost the welterweight title to Vancouver's dynamite in less than a round; Billy Petrolle, who has whipped Jimmy and in turn been whipped by the Canadian; Andy Callahan and Ben Van Klavern, the others picked by the Garden mentor for shots at Jimmy's crown.

Brouillard, native of St. Eugene, Que., would meet Marcel Thill, recognized by the National Boxing Commission as middleweight champion, and Vince Dundee, who is another likely opponent.

The Hamber entry finished two lengths ahead of Puako. Koji was third.

It was the first time this season that any horse has finished first in four straight events.

The Eastern Canadian-bred Budover breeched home two lengths ahead of the field to take the second leg of the day. After allowing Bright Hope, the favorite, to set the pace for half the distance, Budover went out in front and was never in doubt.

Gaining a 49 run victory over the league leading Victoria eleven Five C's went into top position of the Wednesday Cricket League yesterday afternoon, and now stand a good chance to take the honors for the second half of the league. In the other game of the day Fairfield won decisively from Hudson's Bay by a 106 to 70 score. Defeat for the city at the hands of the Hudson's Bay next week will mean clinching the league for the churchmen.

Pendray and Reg Wood were the leading scorers for the C's, making a stand of 80 runs. Barber-Straley, Moffatt and Cox topped the Victoria batsmen. The churchmen also turned in a brilliant fielding game.

NEW YORK RACING HAVING BAD TIME

New York, Aug. 24.—Chairman Joseph P. Widener of the Westchester Racing Association believes horse racing in New York State will be doomed after this year unless betting is legalized.

The famed horseman said that at the reduced prices charged at Belmont Park "we are not breaking even, except for the cost of the meeting. Other expenses are running us $140,000 behind, and this cannot continue after this year."

October Future Hits "Pegged" Price In An Uninterested Market

Winnipeg, Aug. 24.—Wheat prices aided downward on the grain exchange to-day due to lack of interest rather than any particular selling pressure. At the close futures registered losses of 1/2 to 1/4 cents under the previous close, with October delivery standing at the "pegged" price.

The close showed no revival of activity and with buying power almost absolutely lacking, prices eased, marking time for most of the day. October, unable to go any lower, finished at 70 1/2, December 71 1/2 was only a little above the minimum price, as was May at 77.

Lack of buying power in the market prevented prices from reflecting to any extent the bullish outlook engendered by rains in Western Canada which temporarily halted harvesting operations. Offerings were light in the pit and hedging sales were almost negligible.

Firming at Chicago and a little export buying rallied prices a little early, but further inflation talk in United States accounted for early strength in the Chicago market.

Traders were loath to place a figure on export sales; but it was reported one full cargo had been sold for shipment abroad from Vancouver and also a few scattered lots from Atlantic ports.

Liverpool wheat was easier, off 1/4 to 1/2 at the close.

Cash grains trading was dormant. Coarse grains aside from a little buying in oats and rye were not particularly active.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Heart-broken Husband Is Urged to Give Repentant Wife Another Chance — Can Reformed Youth Go Straight if Parents Keep Reminding Him of Past?

DEAR MISS DIX—I have discovered that my wife has been unfaithful to me for several years. She has told me that she did not know why she did this, asked me to forgive her and said that I could always trust her in the future. For the sake of our son, now about eleven years old, and our parents I am trying to think this thing out carefully. Since I learned this I have been in a sort of daze, have come close to a nervous breakdown and find it impossible to get my mind on my business, or to be my old self. I am sure that my love for her which has stood so much for years, for she has been cold and unsympathetic with me, has finally died. She has seen this and has become panicky in her plea of "why cannot I care for her again as I used to?" I feel awfully sorry for her, but it seems to me that a separation is the only solution. She has been a good wife and mother except this.

Answer—Many women forgive their husbands for being unfaithful to them. Why should not a man now and then extend the same mercy to a wife for straying off the strait and narrow path?

Many women for the sake of their children and because their husbands have many good qualities to offset a single weakness stifle their outraged pride and another down the drain of the wrong that has been done them and try to forget the ache in their hearts at their husbands' disloyalty, and somehow, some way, knit up the broken and tarnished threads of their domestic life and carry on. They realize that divorce is not a panacea that heals the wound that the hand you love has dealt you, and that if they broke up their homes they would only make a bad matter worse. They would deprive their children of a father and the advantages and the place in the world he could give them.

They would do themselves out of a good home and the support of a husband and the place in society they occupy. They have seen too many women who, in homely phrase, have jumped out of the frying pan into the fire when they exchanged a philandering husband for a divorce absolute, not to realize how futile a divorce is as a cure for unfaithfulness.

And also many a woman has sense enough to realize that a man may sin with the flesh and not with his soul; that he can be unfaithful to her and still love her; that he can be swept off of his feet by some purple moment; that he can fall victim to the wiles of a siren in some weak hour; that there can come upon him a craving for romance and adventure that he cannot resist, and that when the mad moment is over he will return in sackcloth and ashes to her and be more devoted to her than ever.

I have known a number of cases like this in which a wife was big enough to forgive her husband's early indiscretions and he "rang" himself, as the French say, and they afterward spent many beautiful and happy years together. Both far happier than they would have been if the woman had broken up the home. And infinitely better for the children.

Believe me, brother, all of these arguments apply equally well to a man forgiving his wife. Consider them well and try to see how you will ease your pain; how you will benefit yourself; what advantage it will be to your son for you to break up your home and divorce your wife.

A man is a lonely creature without a wife. He is a forlorn creature without a home. He is a helpless creature with a child with no one to look after him, no one to make a home for him, no mother to love him and cuddle him and give him the ceaseless attention that children need.

Of course, infidelity is a hard thing for one to forgive in one's mate. It is a particularly hard thing for a man to forgive in his wife, because when a man marries he puts his name and his honor in his wife's hands and he expects her to keep them clean. But often forgiveness is better than revenge and brings a man more happiness in the end.

Often a woman is swept from her moorings by some sudden storm of passion just as a man is, and when it is over she creeps back to her husband, battered and bruised, and spends the balance of her life licking his hand in gratitude if he does not shut the door in her face.

Sometimes she, too, hungers for romance that her husband fails to give her and when she has eaten of forbidden fruit and found it dust and ashes in her teeth, she ever afterward eats the plain bread and butter of domestic life on her knees.

So suppose you give her another chance. None of us are so perfect that we should deny that to a sinner.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a boy of sixteen just about to graduate from Junior high school. Until a year ago I was a member of a petty thievery gang, but I recognized that I was doing a wrong and I broke away from them and started an am still going straight. But my trouble is with my parents. Mom had me put in the county jail once for three days and she says that she can put me back in whenever she wants to and I cannot do anything about it. We are always in a quarrel about something and when I run away she had the police bring me back. I have an offer of a good job away from here, but I am afraid to tell dad about it. He would tell the man not to give it to me and say I was irresponsible or something of the sort. Can you help me?

EDWARD

Answer—I have never heard of such unnatural parents, or of a situation in which a father and mother did not try to help a son who was trying to go straight instead of fixing up on him the stigma of prison, and handicapping him with a reputation that will make it hard for him to run the race of life. The only explanation of your mother's conduct that I can conceive is that she is one of the high-tempered women who do things in their rages to gratify their spite without counting the cost.

If this is the case, as long as you are a minor, all you can do is to stand from under as well as you can and avoid doing things to rouse her anger. Do not argue with her and you will avoid quarrels. Give in to her because it is the only way to get along with her. You will soon be grown and can leave such an uncongenial home.

But it is a pity that your mother and father do not understand the power of suggestion, and that if they keep before you the idea that you are wayward and untrustworthy they will make you so. If they continue to hold over your head the threat of prison, they will drive you into one, for they will destroy all of your self-respect and pride and make you feel that you are an outcast and a criminal.

We all unconsciously live up to people's ideals of us, and especially do children live up to parents' ideal of them, and if fathers and mothers are forever telling their children that they are dull or bad or hoodlums, the children give up the struggle to be anything else and drift into being the characters their parents have assigned to them.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a widower with three children and know a woman, a widow with one child, and we are thinking of getting married. Our relationship is very congenial, but I am not strongly in love with her. She thinks more of me than I do of her. Is it not likely that after marriage I might meet some woman with whom I would really fall in love?

PERPLEXED.

You would be practically sure to meet the "other woman" because your letter shows that you are already looking out for her, so why tie yourself up beforehand? Divorces are messy and expensive things. Also Lady Love comes high. But any man with children who would marry a woman with a child and thus mix up two ready-made families is certainly out hunting trouble. Children do not mix. Nor do women with children of their own make good stepmothers. They cannot be fair to the little steps.

Horoscope

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

FRIDAY, AUGUST 25, 1933

Adverse aspects held strong away to-day, according to astrology, but the early morning hours showed a more favorable aspect to many activities on the earth. Under this planetary government persons of power are likely to benefit and to prosper. The stars smile on those who are successful while they frown on less lucky persons. This may be a lucky day for applying for work, but success may come through devious ways. Flattery or acknowledgment of inferiority are potent under this rule of the stars.

Warning is given that while this configuration prevails there may be a tendency toward rebellious states of mind, restlessness under it and even open revolt. There is a sign believed to be significant. The trend toward a sort of discontent. It is wise to cultivate patience at this time. The stars foretell the arrival of prosperity which must come slowly to the people of a danger of breaks in partnerships or mis-

world that has been foolish in its use of the riches of the earth. Astrologers advise the use of logic and the study of the philosophy of history. Human nature changes little, despite the changes of civilization, the seers point out. There is an aspect mildly helpful to men and women who cast out fear of financial quicksand and dare to push independent business ventures.

Women are under a planetary direction that encourages effort, but it should be confined to the well-being of those who belong to the household. Love should triumph over every sort of ambition at this time. Again astrologers predict a period in the future when American women will serve in public positions that bring about widespread reforms. One of the greatest armies of all times will be mobilized from women's clubs and it will march against law-breakers of many sorts. It is foretold, but now patience must be exercised.

This should be a favorable day for meetings of persons of opposite sex. Romances may germinate under this rule, but they will be a bit disappointing at first, the seers declare. Persons whose birthdate it is, the sign of a year of perplexing experiences, which must come slowly to the people of a danger of breaks in partnerships or mis-
